with Oswald are people who are likewise better friends of his father than they are of Paul Gregory.

Paul Gregory stated George Boukhe, a Dallas accountant, and Mrs. Anna Mueller and her husband associated with Oswald in Dallas, Texas. The addresses of these individuals can be obtained from Paul Gregory's father in Dallas. Boukhe was closely associated with Oswald according to Paul Gregory. Paul Gregory stated that at no time did Oswald indicate any animosity towards President Kennedy, Catholics, millionaires as a group or any particular race. All of these areas were discussed as well as political philosophies of America and Russia but never with any undue excitement on the part of Oswald. Paul Gregory stated he did not see any firearms in the possession of Oswald nor did Oswald ever discuss marksmanship, target practices, an interest in hunting and so forth. Gregory knew of no organizational affiliations of Oswald but rather stated during his association with Oswald he did not believe Oswald was associating with any organization.

Concerning Oswald's residence in Russia, Gregory stated Oswald did not mention any official governmental interests in him when Oswald was a resident of Russia and the only possible governmental association indicated by Oswald was when he was sought out by a Russian Army general's son. Gregory stated Oswald related that a general's son, first name Javel, did associate rather intimately with Oswald and the association presumably started because of the general's son's interest in learning the English language.

A signed, sworn statement was obtained from Gregory is attached to this report. Gregory seemed to be straightforward and truthful in his answers. He did not seem evasive or in any way offensive. He was somewhat nervous but considering the issue involved, not unusually so.

Statement of Paul Hedrick Gregory for use at Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, on Saturday, November 23, 1963, in the presence of Special Agent in Charge Jack G. Nelson, U. S. Secret Service, Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, and Sid Wilson, Jr., Chief of Police, Norman, Oklahoma.

My name is Paul Hedrick Gregory. I am 22 years of age and I am currently a student at the University of Oklahoma, Norman, Oklahoma. My address in Norman is 1314 1/2 Gardfield, and my home address is 3413 Dorothy Lane, Fort Worth, Texas. My father is Peter Paul Gregory and my mother is Elizabeth M. Gregory. I am providing this statement concerning my association with Lee Harvey Oswald who I know is the person who has been charged with the assassination of President John F. Kennedy on Friday, November 22, 1963.

I first met Lee Harvey Oswald through my father. My father is a native of Russia and was a teacher of Adult Education Classes at the Fort Worth Public Library. Lee Harvey Oswald became acquainted with my father as a result of my father's teaching Russian at the Public Library Adult Education Classes. Oswald approached my father and attempted to obtain from my father a certification stating Oswald was qualified for work using his ability to speak the Russian language. I personally first met Lee Harvey Oswald in June 1962. My association with him continued until Thanksgiving of 1962. I have had no contact with him since that time.

I associated with Lee Harvey Oswald and his wife Marina primarily at their home when I did receive lessons in the Russian language from them and I also had a social relationship with them. During the time of my association with Lee Oswald and his wife I saw them approximately two times per week. They did not specifically charge me for the lessons in the Russian language they provided, but I believe that I did pay them $57.00 to $40.00 for the lessons.

During my association with the Oswald family we frequently discussed politics, the visit of Lee Oswald to Russia, religion, the philosophy of government in Russia and America and similar subjects. I was interested in learning about Lee Oswald's visit to Russia from an academic and personal standpoint. I found that Lee Oswald went to Russia because he was dissatisfied with his life in America and was under the impression that a Soviet life would be better for him. Oswald had recently been discharged under dishonorable conditions from the Marine Corps and was quite disgusted with the results of his Marine Corps service. I found during our discussions of Russia that Oswald was also critical of the Russian system in its actual form of operation. His criticism was that the current Russian system was a divergent one from the original idea of Lenin and Marx. ~~He stated that the~~ He based this opinion because he said he found the Russian party officials to be dishonest and there was wide-spread thievery by the Russian people. Oswald at no time indicated a belief to me that he thought the Russian form of Government should be instituted in America nor did he indicate that during the two to three years he had been in Russia that he had ever been approached by any governmental official to engage in any activity which would result in harm or discredit to the United States. Oswald indicated he was employed as a machinist in Russia, Russian, and his only possible association with any governmental official was when he became a friend of a son of a Russian General. This man's name, I believe, was Pavel, and I believe Oswald continued his correspondence with this General's son after Oswald returned to the United States. Oswald indicated to me the basis for this relationship was the fact that the General's son was learning English, but the association was primarily personal.

Our discussions encompassed on occasions President Kennedy and millionaires as a group. Both Oswald and his wife were atheists. They did not express any extreme attitude concerning religion but merely passed it off as a ridiculous interest. Oswald was somewhat antagonistic toward millionaires but not viridly so and did not ever indicate any extreme feeling in this matter. He objected to the American system of capitalism because in desiring to accumulate large amounts of money, people become exceedingly greedy and the whole system is based on the accumulation of wealth by the individual.

At no time during my association with Lee Harvey Oswald did he indicate any interest in firearms or hunting as a hobby or marksmanship. To my knowledge he did not possess any weapons, but he could have possessed them without my knowledge. I do not know his proficiency with firearms nor do I know the extent of his training with firearms in the Marine Corps since he was very reluctant to discuss his Marine Corps career. I am aware that a foreign make rifle with a ~~telescopic~~ telescopic sight was used by the assassin of the President. I did not ever see any such rifle or any part of such a rifle in the possession of Lee Oswald and I do not have any idea how such a rifle could have come into his possession.

During my association with Lee Harvey Oswald and his wife we did not belong to any organized group and I do not know of any organized group Lee Oswald belonged to. We have no mutual friends of our age group and the mutual friends we do have come about through a dinner attended primarily by people of Russian extraction. I attended the Arlington Heights High School in Fort Worth, Texas, which is the same high school Lee Oswald attended, but I did not know him there. The only mutual friends which I can recall at this time that I had with Lee Oswald are George Doudle and Anna Mueller and her husband. George Doudle is an accountant in Dallas, Texas, and Mr. and Mrs. Mueller are residents of Dallas. Both of these individuals are known personally to my father and he can provide information to locate them.

Lee Oswald has a brother who lives in Fort Worth whose name I believe is Robert Lee Oswald, Jr. I know him as Bob Oswald. I met Bob Oswald on two occasions, the first time in June 1962 at Bob Oswald's home when I also met Lee Oswald for the first time, and the last time I saw Bob Oswald was at a Thanksgiving dinner at Bob Oswald's house. At this same dinner there were several relatives of the Oswald family, of whom John Edward Pick, who has been identified to me as a half-brother of Lee Oswald, was one of the persons at this dinner. I do not know John Edward Pick if I did not meet him at this dinner.

When I visited Lee Oswald and his wife they lived on Mercedes Street in Fort Worth, Texas, and I remember specifically that Marina Oswald refused to discuss politics during my visits there and claimed to have no interest in politics. I am also of the opinion that Lee Oswald did have a potentially high target because Marina Oswald told me and others that she had been physically abused by Oswald.

As far as my opinion of Lee Oswald goes, I believe he was not a particularly intelligent person, he was dissatisfied with his lot in life, but he at no time indicated to me enough dissatisfaction with his life that he would seek to change it by murder, assassination, or any such act. While my dis-cussed comparative governments and political philosophy, Oswald at no time indicated a rabid preference for any type governmental system and in no way tried to propagandize me toward one particular system of government. I feel now that because of Oswald's mental outlook he could be potentially capable of the act with which he is charged, but at the time of my association with him I would not have believed so. Oswald never expressed any strong feeling for or against Fidel Castro in my presence, but his wife did indicate she was not in favor of Russia supporting the Cuban Government because it removed needed materials from the Russian people than she believed needed them also. The only political books I have ever seen Lee Oswald read was one written by Lenin.

On Monday, November 25, 1963, a day of National mourning as proclaimed by the President, information was not available.

Mr. David Forbes advised that his sister's son was Michael Ralph Paine; that Michael Ralph Paine's father was George Lyman Paine, Jr. of 2331 Holgate Square, Los Angeles, California; that his mother, Ruth Forbes Paine, later married Giles W. Thomas whom she divorced and married Arthur Young.

Ruth Forbes Paine Young is the sister of David C. Forbes and she presently resides at 1810 Delancey Place, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

Mr. Forbes stated he attended the marriage ceremony of Ruth (nee Hyde) Paine to his nephew, Michael Ralph Paine, somewhere on the outskirts of Philadelphia approximately six years ago and they were married in a Quaker ceremony, which is Ruth Hyde Paine's religion.

He further stated to the best of his knowledge, Ruth Hyde Paine now resides in Irving, Texas - a suburb of Dallas - with their two small children, aged 2 and 4 years; that he regards Ruth Hyde Paine as a very kind and generous person, and that she is a clever individual, and that she is possibly on the verge of a separation from her husband, Michael Ralph Paine, and believes they are actually separated at this time. He places the blame of separation on his nephew, Michael Ralph Paine. He further stated that there has been a gradual separation for over a year that he knows about.

David C. Forbes stated that Michael Ralph Paine has a brother, Cameron F. Paine, who resides in Baltimore, Maryland. He stated that Michael Ralph Paine is presently employed by the Bell Aircraft Company in Texas, and that his step-father, Arthur Young, is his guiding light at the Bell Aircraft Company because Young has a very high position with the company. He also stated that to the best of his knowledge Michael Ralph Paine has always been interested in mechanical things and engineering, but that he could never seem to successfully conclude a project.

David C. Forbes further stated that he knew nothing derogatory about Michael Ralph Paine. He doubts if Michael Ralph Paine attends church of any denomination and he does not know his politics and he never knew whether or not he was a member of either major political party.

He also stated that during the summer months Paine and his wife Ruth usually came to Naushon Island at Woods Hole, Massachusetts, and remained there a few weeks each summer, but for the past two years Paine has not appeared and his wife and two children came alone while Paine remained in Texas. He stated that he realized there was a family strain but did not pry into the whys and wherefores; that during the first two weeks in August 1963, Ruth Hyde Paine came to Naushon Island and remained there with the children for the two-week period, residing with Mrs. Arthur (Ruth) Young, who has a home on the Island.

Naushon Island is located about 1/2 mile off Woods Hole on Cape Cod and is nine (9) miles in length. The Island is owned by the Forbes Estate and has been owned by this family for over 100 years. At present there are approximately 20 houses and 500 sheep on the Island; all inhabitants are members of the Forbes family and very seldom if ever are any homes rented or leased to outsiders.

David C. Forbes stated that he did not know Ruth Hyde Paine had any knowledge of the Russian language and it is a surprise to him. He further stated that he could not understand any connection between the Oswald family other than out of the kindness of her heart and he reiterated that she was a kind, generous individual and may have felt sorry for the Oswald family. However, he stated that he does not know - that maybe his sister Mrs. Ruth Young would have some additional information concerning this than he had.

On November 26, 1963, Mr. Arthur Kennedy, Registrar of Harvard University, was interviewed relative to Michael Ralph Paine. The records disclosed that he had been admitted to Harvard College on application from Horace Mann Lincoln School in May 1947 (New York, N.Y.); that he had attended Harvard for two years, majoring in Physics, and was separated as of September 30, 1949 because of his failure to meet minimum scholastic requirements. The records show his birth date to be June 25, 1928 at New York, N. Y.; his home address to be 35 E. 75th St., New York City; his father to be George Lyman Paine, Jr. (Harvard, Class of 1922); his mother to be Ruth (Forbes) Paine Thomas - she divorced George Lyman Paine, Jr. in 1934 and married Giles W. Thomas who died and she later married Arthur M. Young.

On November 26, 1963, the Diccnial Reports for the Class of 1951 were examined. Michael Ralph Paine had submitted the following information for this report: Aircraft Research Engineer, 2515 W. 5th, Irving, Texas; employed by Bell Helicopter, Ft. Worth, Texas; wife, Ruth Hyde, whom he married on December 8, 1957 at Media, Pennsylvania; one child, Sylvia, born November 17, 1959.

Also on November 26, 1963, the Class Reports for the Class of 1922, to which the father, George Lyman Paine, Jr. was a member, were examined at the Widener Library. These reports are submitted directly to the Class Secretary by the alumnus. The 25th year and 35th year reports are highly significant and zerox copies have been made and are attached hereto.

The father, George Lyman Paine, Jr., was born at New York City on November 16, 1901. His father was George Lyman Paine, Harvard Class of 1896. His 1947 address was 629 Hudson Street, New York, N.Y. and his address in 1957 was 2331 Hölgate Square, Los Angeles, California. He married Ruth Forbes on March 20, 1926 at Milton, Massachusetts. They were divorced in 1934 and he married Frances Drake at New York, N. Y. in 1939. The children by his marriage to Ruth Forbes were Michael Ralph Paine, born June 25, 1928, and Cameron Forbes Paine, born May 3, 1932.

Copy of the 25th Class Report of Michael Ralph Paine was mailed to SAIC Bouck on November 26, 1963.

On November 27, 1963, Registrar Kennedy's Office at Harvard University produced the personnel file of Michael Ralph Paine, which disclosed that he had resided at Gray's Hall, a Harvard dormitory, through 1947 and 1948, and at Claverley Hall from January 1949 until he left the University. His room-mate was Nathaniel Patterson Worman in 1947, whose address was 2825 Ridgeway Road, Dayton, Ohio. Paine was a non-resident member of Lowell House. His faculty advisers were Professors John H. Gardner and Dr. Goldstein - neither of whom are now at Harvard. Paine's marks at the end of his second included three D's and one E and he was discouraged from returning to Harvard because these final grades were below the minimum set by the faculty. He was advised to continue his education at a different institution. Paine's religion was noted to be Unitarian.

The file disclosed nothing derogatory about Paine. He was noted as being "shy" and "lazy". His only activities were the Glee Club, Bach Choral Group and the Outing Club. No mention was made or indicated of his political activity or interest.

Paine sent for two transcripts of his academic record in 1950 but there were no inquiries from any other college nor did the file at Harvard contain any mention of further education.

Mr. Kennedy stated that from experience he knew that further inquiries at the University would be fruitless, particularly insofar as obtaining any indication of Paine's political leanings or thoughts. He suggested that Paine's former room-mate, Nathaniel Worman, could possibly assist in this regard.

From the Dicennial Reports of the Class of 1951, it was learned that Worman's address as of 1961 was c/o O'Shea Publishing Company, Enosburg Falls, Vermont. This company will be contacted and Worman will be interviewed in the near future.

HARVARD CLASS OF 1912

Sylvania School of Social Work in Philadelphia. Here our children were born—Mary Christina in 1918 and Richmond Talbot in 1940. We hope the latter will duly appear at Harvard in the Class of 1962.

In 1942 we returned to New York and I left library work to edit After the War (later Economic Affairs), a monthly publication issued by the Institute on Postwar Reconstruction at New York University. After the War was designed to present in simple language the ideas and findings of professional economists and others concerning the transition from a war to a peace economy. The postwar period was bound to bring economic readjustments of heroic proportions. Our attempt was to help people prepare for these changes by providing dispassionate discussion as a basis for inquiry and understanding.

With the war over and the transition well underway, After the War ceased publication. At present writing (January, 1947) I am starting another publication, Applied Economics. As with After the War, the new publication is operated under a grant from the Alfred P. Sloan Foundation, Incorporated, the grant this time being made to the American Association of Teachers Colleges. The purpose of Applied Economics is to share with schools throughout the country the experience of the Sloan experimental schools in Florida, Kentucky, and Vermont. These schools have shown that local living conditions can be improved by what pupils learn in their classes. Essentially it is a matter of learning by doing, and doing some of the things that result in better clothing, better food, and better shelter.

This brings matters up to date; but the course, I hope, is far from over. Undoubtedly the 25th Anniversary is fringed with gray hairs, but even so, it marks only the middle. The road ahead is still long and will go through, I am sure, fully as interesting country as the road behind.

IN the hope that other classmates will have done likewise, I will try to trace the process of my development, for good or ill, rather than chronicle the facts of my doing.

Marriage followed on the heels of the four-year course at the Harvard School of Architecture. Then for eighteen months we lived and worked in Italy, France, and Spain. We explored ourselves more than we explored Europe, we replaced many discarded Puritan values with broader concepts, we raised more questions than we found answers.

The years following in New York were an extension of that trip abroad. By vocation and avocation we probed for the meaning of art and architecture, for the role of scientist and creative man in society; in short, for the motive force and dynamic pattern of human life. But during these years the pattern seemed too complex, the strands too numerous and diverse for more than partial, contradictory integration, however broad the reading, however great the energy, sympathy, and passion spilled out in its pursuit.

Nevertheless they were fine, gay years fired by the voices, as I saw them, of vision and of revolt; Stravinsky, Freud, Le Corbusier, Frank Lloyd Wright, Dos Passos, Hemingway, Beard, O'Neill. Fired also by a trip to Germany early in 1929 to study the workers' housing there, the admiration of the architectural world. How was it possible and what did it signify that these superb social creations were built in Germany, defeated and ruined by the war, and not in the United States?

Dim reactions, engendered thus, were fanned to active life by the world crash. All this past pothier with individualistic ideals and intellectual abstractions! Here before my eyes was no illusion but the concrete exposure of the theory of "American Exceptionalism," the incapacity of the American capitalist system with the intellectuals included.

My office closed. I got a job through the Civil Works Administration with the New York City Housing Authority. Up to my neck in housing research and community planning. I shared the work and the dreams of the liberals whose baby it was. I joined the Federation of Architects, Engineers, Chemists, and Technicians, a union for professional men. Through those most active in it, the members of the various radical political parties, I came into contact with Marxism. The writings of Marx, Engels, Lenin, and Trotsky opened new doors upon an old world. The theory of historical materialism began to make clear much that had eluded me these many years; the relations between the movement of society and the movement of ideas, between the world of the mass (action) and the world of the intellectual, between the individual and society.

This theory and its derivative, the theory of class struggle, provided the only comprehensible explanation to the new phenomena on the American scene; the radio squad cars called out to disperse the too-great throngs of workers crowding to hear Shakespeare and Beethoven in the park (WPA) and to break up the hunger marches, the historic movement to the left of intellectuals flocking to Marxism and workers to the sit-down strikes and the CIO. It gave substance and coherence to the great events of the past ten years of which I, like most Harvard men, had been but dimly conscious through deeply, vaguely disturbed, from Sacco and Vanzetti, through the defeats of the European revolutions, to the rise of Hitler.

I could no longer escape the reality of the class struggle nor the responsibility for action. I became a follower of Leon Trotsky and a partisan of the world working class.

In the twelve years which have followed, life, both for me and for my wife, has been an interweaving harmony of reading and hard work, activity in the labor movement and Marxist politics, of theory and practice. Architecture, three years as a shipfitter during the war, organizing, speaking, labor defense, teaching, and writing have been among the facets of a unified, creative life. To my way of thinking this joy is no result of accident or personal whim. Creation and frustration are but the reciprocal expressions of the relation of the individual to his society. Today the world-wide contradictions, decay and incapacity of capitalism are a paralyzing reality for all society, therefore also for the individual. The upward path from the

to the new has ever been a path of struggle, a concrete struggle, a class struggle. I am free and I am content because I have chosen my side in that struggle and chosen to act.

A TASTE for travel into strange lands and cultures is a desire common to many minds, but as it is somewhat easier in time and expense to stimulate the mind with literatures about foreign places than it is to travel widely afield, it was not until I left the Graduate School that I could get away long enough to justify a trip to the Orient. In 1928 I set out for China, intending first to spend the summer in Japan. Three years later I was still in Japan, having found that I could spare just ten days for a regular tourist trip to Peking. This was in the days when it was fashionable to say that everything Japanese was initiative, an error which has cost us much in our misunderstanding of this very foreign land and which may still mislead us in any estimate of the democratization processes now going on.

But then in the late and peaceful twenties, living in the city of Kyoto, the Florence of Japan, the atmosphere of its strange art lost its strangeness and I grew eager to take up the history of Japanese art as my major interest. In 1931 I returned to Boston and in the following year entered the Asiatic Department of the Boston Museum of Fine Arts. Looking back, it is impossible to small towns only fresher and perhaps in some respects better. Against the usual apathy and opposition, it campaigned long, hard, and eventually successfully for a sewage system for the town and the construction of a factory building for rental to help diversify its rural economy.

The civics class in a high school in Texas formed itself into a committee with planning, financial and publicity components, for the purpose of creating a badly needed recreation center for all ages. The youngsters were painstaking and thorough in getting their facts and presenting them. It was scarcely a shoo-in, but after a struggle the committee's enthusiasm—and the persistency of its facts—caught on and there was a bond issue. Now the town has something vastly better than the two pin-ball machines in the notion store for its outside recreation.

There are hundreds of similar projects. It is astonishing what young people can do given the opportunity and the responsibility along with sufficiently restrained guidance. Experiments like these and many others in primary and secondary schools were carried out with the aid, mostly indirect, of funds from the Alfred P. Sloan Foundation. It has been an effective and profitable use of foundation money. As a culmination of its project in applied economics, the Sloan Foundation offered a terminal grant to expand the bulletin Applied Economics into an illustrated magazine covering social and cultural improvement as well as economic. Since the Foundation does not make grants to individuals, I was asked to organize a non-profit corporation to receive and administer the money. Payson Rowe was treasurer and Endy Wheeler was secretary. Also on the board of trustees was Mac Lloyd of the Class of 1921. So the magazine really did have something of a Harvard background. It was called Schools and Better Living and was strictly a one-man operation. With the secretarial help of a bright young graduate fresh out of Radcliffe, I designed the magazine, secured publishable material from teachers, edited it, wrote editorials, articles, and book reviews, conducted mail promotion campaigns, did the make-up on each copy (it was published monthly), got it out to the subscribers, and in my spare time tried to raise money to keep us afloat. It was like shooting rapids and attempting to describe the scenery as we went, while steering clear of the whirlpools and rocks.

After three years we did hit a rock, the financial one, of course.

and the magazine had to fold. But it was an exciting course. Schools and Better Living offered teachers an instrument through which they could tell each other what they actually did in the classroom rather than be told what they ought to do by professors in the teachers' colleges. The latter is, of course, an important and necessary part of creating good schools, but I think many teachers found it refreshing and rewarding to be able to talk shop directly with each other. At any rate some thousands of them parted with their hard-earned dollars to subscribe, and the magazine was used extensively overseas by the Department of State and Unesco.

Possibly influenced by, but at any rate coincident with, the folding of the magazine, my ulcers which had been having their ups and downs for some years burst into such a fury that what seemed like a rather formidable operation became necessary. This apparently deflated the ulcers once and (I devoutly hope) for all. It is true the operation left me skinny as Skinny, but this not so sad condition doesn't bother him so why should it me? At this writing I am in the sheet metal fabricating business. We make cabinets, chassis, panels and such like for the electronics industry. It is my first venture in business since not long after leaving college and thus I have, in a way, come full circle. The future is not as long as it was then, but it still is the same old future, and it still beckons with its mysterious finger.

This summary of the past ten years can have meaning only in relation to the aims and direction established in the previous twenty-five, reported on in 1947. I am still married to the same remarkable woman, still earning a living as an architect, still consumed by the urge to contribute as I am able to the solution of those ills of society which today frustrate most marriages and most architects along with other human beings.

I continue to find it impossible to derive satisfaction out of individualistic expressions of order and beauty in the midst of a society where, in every sphere, order and beauty and individuality are thwarted and perverted.

I continue to express such creative energies as I may have in a stubborn, active and uncompromising hostility to all forces, all aspects of society which deny to man both order and human dignity and which, furthermore, oppose a positive barrier to his every effort to achieve such a goal.

By 1950 it finally became clear that the solution to the problems of humanity, and therefore of individual creativity, lay not in the education of people nor in the character of leaders. The problem lay in the concept itself of leadership over people. The solution lay in the liberation of people to achieve their own destiny, apart from and in opposition to domination by any elite or group whatsoever. Because the Trotskyites shared in this concept of the rôle of an elite, of a mission to lead, I broke with them, along with a number of colleagues, in 1951.

Since then I have become part owner and part editor of a small paper, Correspondence. For the past five years it has been an arduous and exciting experiment toward the creation of an instrument, a form, through which the ordinary worker can freely express his real concerns and can communicate with others, and through which the intellectual can re-establish contact with the driving force of society and contribute thereto as a colleague whose function is not to dominate but to give of his historical knowledge and, particularly, experience.

Since my wife participates totally and equally with me in all these endeavors, since we have expanded from a tiny box in New York to a spacious, if tumble-down, house in a jungle of green and growing things under the friendly sun of southern California, and since we both love both work and play, life continues to be a full and fine affair.

The year 1947 was a glorious one. Sailed the thirty-two-foot Pacific Child to Honolulu in the trans-Pacific race of that year, cruised the Hawaiian Islands, and sailed her back to California. In 1948 I ran the Little Farm Poultry Company (which I had started in 1935) and had enough leisure to go in the ocean races and be commodore of the Miami Yacht Club. In 1949 and 1950 I bought and ran an old L. S. M. between Mexico and Gulf ports. Dignify it if you want to by calling it the Palmetto Shipping Company. The year 1951 was another glorious one. Had the starboard watch on the Malabon XVIII in the Habana-San Sebastian race, that sailed up to England for the Fastnet, and leisurely home by way of Spain, Portugal, Madeira, and the Caribbean.

In 1952 I worked for the Old Dominion Research and Development Corporation in Virginia and would still be there if my wife hadn't decided we might as well starve in Florida as freeze in Virginia. Then came a lot of hard work which culminated in my being president of Engineered Products, Inc., in Miami. Somewhat dignified but it didn't keep the owners from transferring me to Cuba where, they had an unsuccessful sand operation. I hope in three years to get the type of Skimny's clam digger out of my back and return to Miami which I still use as a permanent address. Meanwhile, we are all very healthy and happy in Cuba.

SYNOPSIS

Information has been received from 3-11-48 indicating that if the assassination of President Kennedy involved an international plot or conspiracy and that if it was established that Fidel Castro had anything to do with the plot or conspiracy, that the party responsible for carrying out any action on the part of Fidel Castro undoubtedly was Quintin Pino Machado, a Cuban terrorist used by Castro to carry out any Castro action.

(A) INTRODUCTION:

On November 27, 1963, 3-11-48 was interviewed on another matter and during this interview he furnished information which he believed pertinent in connection with the assassination of President Kennedy.

(B) GENERAL INQUIRIES:

During interview of 3-11-48 on November 27, 1963, he stated that if an international conspiracy or plot, or if Castro's intervention in the assassination of President Kennedy is in fact established, that Quintin Pino Machado would have been the intellectual director of the conspiracy or plot. Source related that Quintin Pino Machado belonged to the Communist Party but was better known as "belonging to Castro".

3-11-48 added that Quintin Pino Machado was a former Cuban delegate to the U.N. and subsequently the Cuban ambassador to Nicaragua. He stated that Machado is well known as a terrorist who also trained other youth in the manufacturing or placing of bombs and explosives and was the chief coordinator of sabotage for Castro against Batista.

Source further related that Quintin Pino Machado worked in a clandestine manner for Castro throughout South America and is the person responsible for Castro action in North and Central America, as well as in the Caribbean area.

3-11-48 also stated that while Quintin Pino Machado was Cuban ambassador to Nicaragua, he allegedly sponsored a baseball team known as "Cuba" and would take the members of the baseball team to an outlying area allegedly to practice the game, but instead taught them how to manufacture bombs and explosives.

3-11-48 further advised that either in June or July 1963 Quintin Pino Machado was known to have participated in a conference with Cheddy Jagan in Trinidad, South America and subsequently Quintin Pino Machado allegedly continued operating out of Mexico City and may have been there prior to or up until the assassination of President Kennedy. The source said that they were employing all of their resources in trying to discreetly determine whether or not Quintin Pino Machado was in fact in Mexico City prior to the President's assassination. They advised that they have dispatched a delegation to Mexico City to work in unison with their delegation in that city in an effort to determine whether Quintin Pino Machado was in any way involved or whether the conspiracy may have been originated through Fidel Castro.

The above information was discussed with SAIC Marshall on November 27, 1963 and on November 29, 1963 it was telephonically furnished to SA Max Phillips at Dallas, Texas.

With respect to Quintin Pino Machado, reference is made to the file involving a Cuban plot to assassinate the President under file CO-2-32,682, specifically to Page 9 of report submitted by the reporting agent dated December 14, 1962 wherein Quintin Pino Machado is prominently mentioned. Further reference is made to Paragraph 7, Page 9 of the referenced report, wherein is indicated that "The source cautions that Quintin Pino Machado should be considered a dangerous person".

On November 29, 1963, 3-11-48 again contacted this office and revealed that while Quintin Pino Machado was in a drunken condition in Las Villas Province, Cuba (exact date not recalled) Machado boasted that he had almost succeeded in assassinating Dr. Enrique Huertas at Miami, Fla. (This office has no information regarding the latter assassination attempt on Dr. Enrique Huertas). It is noted, however, that Dr. Enrique Huertas was among the invited guests to participate at the dinner in honor of President John F. Kennedy held at the Americana Hotel on November 18, 1963 under the auspices of the Inter-American Press Association.

To Lee, Marina, & June,

I hope that this letter reach before the new addition of your family. I congratulate both of you and particularly you, Marina. I also wish that it would be a son, because you already have a daughter and in that case if it would be a daughter then you would have an organization in the family that would over-rule the father.

About 10 days ago I sent you a letter to New Orleans. In this letter I'm enclosing for you pictures of Minsk.

Yesterday I finished my last examination for 2nd course and now I'm studying for the 3rd course and from October 1, I will begin to study.

In the past I hardly could believe that it would be so hard to find work there. I do not think that they would deny him his request to return to the Soviet Union when he would ask the consulate. However, for sure to remember that you cannot change too often the continents (countries).

In the event that they would allow you to come to Minsk in the first place he is known to both of us and in the second this is one of the best cities of the union. Marina do not worry, everything will be all right. As they say, the world is not without good people. Try to cheer up Lee. I remember him prior to his departure from the Union. Remember the quotations from Ilpha and Petrova, so, therefore, everything surmise greetings great country!

"I do not represent myself as Count Monte Cristo." Do not be hurt, but this is just a joke as it is we have work for everybody. Do come everything will be all right. When you decide to come do write. I will meet you.

Paul

P.S. Marina wish you would bring with you some phonograph records. I like very much to hear on radio the Berei Sisters (Is the name correct?), particularly rendition "Black Eyes".

I will transcribe on a tape.

Oswald who had defected to the Soviet Union. She recalled interviewing Lee H. Oswald at the Hotel Metropole in Moscow advising she was aware Oswald's room had been wired. Accordingly, she exercised care in questioning him, especially since he informed her the Soviet authorities had instructed him not to permit any interviews by the American press and he was violating their "trust".

Miss Johnson had retained the notes she took at the time of her interview with Oswald and exhibited copies of articles she wrote appearing in the Boston Sunday Globe of November 24, 1963 and the Christian Science Monitor of November 26, 1963 relating to her interview with Oswald. The articles are self-explanatory.

According to Miss Johnson, Oswald in her opinion was a "loner", a person who did not mix socially and kept to himself very much. He was a self-taught Marxist who stated he had read Marx's book, Das Capital, when he was only fifteen years of age. He taught himself to read and write Russian and his decision to defect arose out of his bitterness toward the United States, particularly the plight of the American negro and the exploitation of workers. He was reared in poverty and his mother, a widow, had worked extremely hard to bring up her family. He also expressed resentment at his treatment by the U. S. Marine Corps and accused the United States of military imperialism. He informed Miss Johnson that he had petitioned the Soviet Government for citizenship and stated he had no intention of ever returning to the United States.

Miss Johnson stated she questioned him about the manner in which he traveled to Russia suggesting that he must have been aided by other persons or organizations. He specifically stated he made the trip on his own initiative on monies he had saved while in the Marine Corps and that he positively did not receive assistance from any persons or organizations. She attempted to impress upon him the folly of his actions and in a roundabout manner tried to get him to change his mind about defecting but without success. She concluded that he was a fanatic and that further attempts to dissuade him from seeking Russian citizenship would be futile.

In her description of Oswald, Miss Johnson stated he was touching, likeable and quiet. She felt he was a malcontent who was unsure of himself and probably would be unhappy wherever he was. Although she considered him a fanatic, she did not think he would resort to violence. She does not know whether he had been questioned by the Soviet Secret Police but obviously he had received some instructions from a Soviet authority concerning his activities while in Russia. He stayed very close to the hotel and according to his own statement, he did not attempt to establish friendship with any Russians.

Oswald promised to let her know if he was leaving the hotel. When she inquired at the hotel for him two days later she found he had disappeared and concluded the Soviet authorities had whisked him away having naturally learned of the interview. She has not seen him since.

Miss Johnson stated she was interviewed November 23, 1963 by FBI Agents Curry and Sullivan in Boston and that she gave them a deposition concerning her interview with Oswald. She is leaving New York on December 1st for Boston and on the following day, December 2 is flying to Washington where she has an appointment with Mr. Andrew Lowenfeld of the State Department. Mr. Lowenfeld works in the office of a Mr. Shea, a legal counsel for the State Department. While in Washington she will be staying with her brother, Stewart H. Johnson, Jr. at 2906 N. Street, N.W. and expects to remain there until the end of the week.

Verifax copies were made of the newspaper articles previously referred to, and the notes made by Miss Johnson at the time she interviewed Oswald and are being forwarded with this report.

Oswald Interview in Moscow Recalled

Miss Johnson Discovers in Long Talk

What kind of man was Lee Harvey Oswald?

Did this abolitionist, Marxist, avowed Communist, the President's assassin, the man who shot and killed the President of the United States, as Dr. J. Edgar Hoover has described him, have any other side to him?

Two days before he was shot and killed as the case of a deserter.

Now people really seem to have known the 24-year-old New Orleans native well. Most describe him as a quiet sort of well-to-do. He gave few opportunities to really understand him.

But in a rare moment of self-revelation, he gave one American agent a glimpse of the man he was. She is Miss Johnson, a woman, and at the time she was being interviewed by a correspondent for the New York American Newspaper.

Interview in Moscow

The time was early November 1952. The place—the Hotel Metropol, Moscow's principal hotel for foreigners.

Oswald had arrived in the Soviet Union on Oct. 30 that year with the announced intention of seeking Soviet citizenship.

Ten days later Miss Johnson now doing research at Harvard University, learned he was in Moscow. He said he would, and they talked quite freely for seven hours.

The impression of Oswald that emerges from that meeting is of a young man intensely bitter at the United States, who displayed absolute sincerity and candor about whatever he was attempting to do. He was moment trying to obtain Soviet citizenship.

As this the sort of man who might have assassinated the President?

“I struck me,” Miss Johnson would not say what work she did in an interview this week.

let the Soviet Union, he put the same three-headedness for Kennedy, however he needed to learn for this act (the assassination).

“I never, ever, Penny he started in the Marines for the trip to Alaska, she said, and he wanted an early discharge so he could get there a little earlier. Within two days of his departure, she was on a boat for the Soviet Union.

“I just think this is the kind of person that might . . . he would have gone about it in a methodical way. He would have learned whatever he needed to know.”

Reports Detailed

This description dovetails with the FBI report that back in March 29 of this year Oswald, using an assumed name, ordered from a mail-order firm the rifle with which President Kennedy was shot during a motorcade in Dallas.

He was bitter, Miss Johnson said, against “capitalism” and “worker exploitation in the United States, classic Communism as well as Marxist purists. But he never expressed any hatred of the presidency or of John F. Kennedy, then a young man who had just become President.

“I didn't speak about politics in a personal way.”

Capability indicated

During their long conversation, Miss Johnson said, Oswald was favorably using murder as a political weapon.

“I got from our conversation, I could see that he was a man capable of a whole lot because of his amazing bitterness, she said.

“My mother,” he told her, “was a worker for her moment trying to obtain Soviet citizenship.”

She had to produce a profit for the capitalist, and is a good example of what happens to workers in the United States.”

“But,” she added, “the Oswalds didn't say what work she did in an interview this week.”

year when they talked, and people generally agree by now that the Cuban leader was a Communist.

“The Kennedy of Cuba,” she said, “was never once during the seven-hour interview did Oswald mention Cuba or Castro, though he later became a member of the Cuban branch of the Play for Cuba, a left-wing, pro-Castro group.

After talking a good deal about Marxist philosophy and its application in the world, I said to him, ‘I have had practical experience in the world. I know how to get a chance to work in a hospital in a colony.’”

Miss Johnson recalled.

He also told her that “the had seen tremendous poverty in the United States, and he had been shocked by the plight of the Negro.”

But again and again he returned to theoretical Marxism. He said he had become a Marxist at 15.” Miss Johnson recalled.

Had to Escape

“After five years of reading socialist literature,” he told her, “observing treatment of negroes (Communists, Negroes, and workers especially) watching the treatment of workers in New York and seeing how they're exploited—I'd read about it in socialist literature and thought the description was quite correct.

He indicated he wanted Soviet citizenship primarily to escape the United States society. “Since I'd either be a worker exploited for (in the United States) or else an exploiter,” he had said, “I'd have been one of the unemployed” rather than assume either role.

At the time “he was terribly bitter against the American Embassy,” she said, “because they would not allow him to take the oath renouncing his citizenship.”

“They would not accept his of bearing a grudge.

“The State Department is a very big organization, and it is not easy to get a letter to the State Department.”

“I have a letter to the State Department,” she said, “and I have a letter to the State Department.”

Interview With Suspect Oswald in Moscow in 1959

The Stuff of Which

The author was Moscow Correspondent for NANA in 1959. A few years before, in 1953, she had been research assistant on Viet Nam for John F. Kennedy, then a senator. She is perhaps the only person to have been good friends with both the late President and his suspected assassin. She is today a free-lance writer on Soviet affairs.

By FRISCILLA JOHNSON

(Copyright, 1964, by Friscilla Johnson, New York, N.Y. Published by Cambridge, Mass.—For two years now I have been waiting to do this one thing. To dissolve my American citizenship and become a citizen of the Soviet Union.)

The time was November, 1959. The place was my room on the third floor of Moscow's Hotel Metropol. The speaker was Lee Harvey Oswald, prime suspect in the assassination of John F. Kennedy.

With his suit of charcoal gray flannel, dark tie and tan cashmere sweater, Lee looked, and sounded like Joe College with a slight southern drawl. But his life hadn't been that of a typical college boy.

His father, an insurance salesman in the hotel room, died before he was just one floor below mine at home. Raised in Texas and the North. He had no Louisiana, New York spent two friends in Russia and he didn't years in New York during his speak a word of the language. He had in the U.S. Marines. Was to Dieckhoff, a child. I did it, he said, "because I didn't want to be a burden on my mother." an ice cream cone there, he later, he spent 14 months as told me proudly. a licensed radar operator in the Far East.

In September, 1959, his room all evening and into three-year hitch nearly done, the early hours of morning, the Marines gave Lee a de-pendency discharge. Just one plans to defect to Russia, a month later, after an exhaust- ing trip by land, sea and air, that this boy was of the highest technical body in the U.S.S.R. for Soviet citizenship. warned him Soviet citizenship became a Marxist.

For days, Oswald had been already referring to the Soviet in Japan and the Philippines, when, and if, he became a cit-

Government as "my govern- ment." "But," said Lee, "Even American millitant imperial- count will I go back to the United States. I shall remain here, if necessary, as a resident alien."

All Soviet officials would promise at the time was that Lee could stay on in Russia, whether or not he became a citizen. Meanwhile, they were "investigating the possibility of sending him to a Soviet higher technical institute."

At an age when angry, young rebels all over the world find release in spitting the world, that brought this a serious soft-spoken southern, boy to Moscow with no other ambition but to spend the rest of his life as a Soviet citizen? Evidently, it was a combina- tion of poverty, the plight of the U.S. Negro, and the U.S. Marines.

"My mother," said Lee, "has been a worker all her life. She's a good example," he added, "of what happens to workers in the United States." He declined to elaborate.

"At the age of 13," he added, "after watching the way workers are treated in New York and Negroes in the South, I was looking for a key to my environment. Then I discovered Socialist literature. Lee was struck, in particu- lar, by Marx's 'Das Kapital.' He concluded that, as an American, 'I would become either a worker exploited for capitalist profit, or an ex- ploiter or, since there are many in this category, I'd be one of the unemployed.' Lee's highest technical body in the U.S.S.R. for Soviet citizenship became a Marxist.

Later, as a Marine private, he would let the Soviet gov- ernment handle legal details. Embassy in Moscow, they write torn between their di- rection, and their legal obliga- tion to hear his oath renounce- ing American citizenship if he insisted.

Lee was bitter at U.S. Con- sultant Richard Snyder, who he charged, stalled him when he asked to take the oath on Oct. 31, the only time Lee had been in the Embassy. As a result, Lee would not go back there. He would let the Soviet gov- ernment handle legal details.

Fanatics Are Made'

men of the Soviet Union, shortcomings in Moscow, Lee's answer was that he would never go at his door and why a few live with passport to the American Embassy back to the U.S.A. "Emigrants," he said, "I'm not in my room, I never learned."

I asked Lee if the ordinary don't recommend it to every Russian he met expressed surprise at his desire to defect, new country, always being the same. "Well," he said, "they're very outsiders, always having to adjust. But materialist Muscovites are strong and good. I believe he added, "understand when I'm doing right."

That was why Lee wouldn't speak of the idealistic reasons that brought me here. And they ask me many questions about conditions of workers in the United States."

'Never Go Back'

Regardless of any material lean correspondents: Just why before closing the door, that know.

As he was leaving I asked him to come see me again. The next day he called me, had him to return home. He had warned that he mustn't talk to any American. But he promised to speak to any American. But he promised to speak to any American. But he promised to speak to any American.

As our conversation drew to a close, we ate nothing, and had been slipping easily the work and had a terrible feeling of fatigue. Distraction, I was sure, awaited him.

Oswald, a know- second I'd two
