rees to End

Strong and persistent union protests against anti-labor policies adhered to by Asant Secretary of the Navy Ralph Bard have brought results, it was announced yesby the National Maritime Union and the American Communications Association. Following a series of conferences between Bard, Frederick N. Myers, vice presiof the NMU and Joseph P. Selly, president of the ACA expressed their satisfaction he Secretary's approach to a .

of proposals which both the Navy had agreed to apply the for the utilization of all available ant marine.

is against certain officials of the Nevy Departent.

HAID REINSTATEMENT

The unions hailed the Secretary's reinstatement of Murray Winccur, Vice President of ACA, who had been removed from his ship, by the Secretary, under what the unions contended was an improper application of Public Law 351. The Secretary agreed, in addition, to review the cases of several other union officials and members and to establish a procedure for the administration of Public Law 351, which would guarantee due process of law to any accused radio opera-. . tor.

Myers and Selly stated that it was particularly significant that had offered for improving proper test of pro-Axis activity in small craft for Coast Patrols and delitions of safety for the per- making any allegations of subver- Convoys would receive immediate et and ships of the American sive intent, and would reject the consideration and action. Dies technique of rad-balting.

on grievances which had been of safety-at-sea, for training of all new and constructive era in the la-

Both union representatives stated istant Secretary Bard took af-dive action to clear up certain ACA that their proposals for rules these conferences would usher in a basis of charges of anti-labor merchant seamen as gunners, and bor policy of the Navy Department.