BURNS AGENCY - PORTLAND

Mr. Fleming, Manager

My visit to this Agency was out short because of the necessity of getting back to Seattle, and the only file of those listed as industrial cases at Portland which had anything in it, was that of the American Can Company. There did not appear to be anything of value in this file, although I went through it too hurriedly to make a thorough examination, and either Mr. Eagan or myself will check it again.

Mr. Fleming stated that two smaller concerns in Portland did most of the industrial work. These are the Thiel Service Company in the Pittock Block, and a detective agency run by F. M. Ellis, whose office is in the Redell Building. The Thiel Service Company is managed by a Mr. Sutton. Mr. Fleming stated he knew Sutton did industrial work because Sutton's operatives would come to Fleming asking for work, and would report that they had been on industrial work for Thiel's. Mr. Ellis formerly ran the Pinkerton office in Portland until it was closed, and he has carried on the old Pinkerton work since about 1932 under his own name. Mr. Fleming stated he had reports that Ellis was losing out on the industrial work and might be forced to close because his type of business, that is, furnishing undercover men and strikebreakers, was being taken over by the Industrial Association.
