Error, Not Conspiracy

Sing You persist in defending the Warren Commission report by staking the personal Integrate of the commission on it. This is neither agical nor right. The report can be defended only by the control of the control of United States law. We do not the infallibility in public servants but we do expect infallibility in public servants, but we do expect and provide for the rectification of error.

Never before has proclaimed ignorance been accepted as authority, but the papers recently have been full ed as authority, but the papers recently have been the of statements from various officials all, in one form or another, saying, "I do not know what I am talking about, but..." And then, it seems, they say the books sey haven a read are wrong. I have yet to have an error in "Whitewash. The Report on the Warren Report," collect to my affection, and I have seen to it that most of called to my attention and I have seen to it that most of he people most concerned had copies, that most of the correspondents, reviewers and editors had the first

It is not true that for the report to be wrong there ad to be a monster conspiracy involving everyone from the chief justice down to the most junior char-moment in the Department of Justice. To persist in this lise and illogical conclusion may well destroy the according to the members of the commission, who can be

Frong without being corrupt.

Neither in "Whitewash" nor in its coming sequel. White wash II," do I assault the integrity of the members of the commission.
