MISC INFO

[REDACTED] SBT&T, telephonically advised he had interviewed LAYTON MARTENS. MARTENS advised that he and [REDACTED] were "chums" and that MARTENS had obtained his information from [REDACTED] who had told him [REDACTED] that because of this, [REDACTED] was doing an administrative type inquiry as well, and in the event they developed any positive information, he would advise.

He stated the only reason that MARTENS suspected that his phones were tapped, was because there was a noise on the line.

[REDACTED] stated he recalled that the officer who had called Information for the unlisted telephone had used the name CLEM BERTRAND, CLAY BERTRAND and the initial "C" BERTRAND, and that when he asked the operator, he asked if they have a phone listed in the name of CLAY, CLEM or "C" BERTRANS, and was advised they did have an unlisted telephone, that [REDACTED] could not recall but had in his files actually the names of two unlisted telephones, one of them being in the name of CLAYTON BERTRAND and he could not recall the name of the other.
