Nixon Settles Ecad

President Nixon nad to step in personally to settle a feud between the Treasury's Customs Bureau and Justice's Narcotics Bureau over which agency should chase drug smugglers.

Sometimes the two agencies seemed to spend more time squabbling over narcotics than hunting for the smugglers. Meanwhile, the drug menace has grown alarmingly in the United States.

The President issued a directive giving the Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs, as it is known formally, the primary jurisdiction over narcotics.

"A difference of opinion has existed between the Justice and Treasury Departments as to the responsibility for dealing with the international traffic in narcotics," said the private directive.

"BNDD should be designated the agency to control the narcotics area. Customs should support BNDD's efforts to reduce and eliminate the flow of narcotics into the United States, and its intelligence network should be used to assist in the over-all effort." © 1970, Bell-McClure Syndicate, Inc.
