Two Subpoenaed by Grand Jury In Southwest Bell Funds Case | Post | Visor of a smaller district in | personal, not corporate

Special to The Washington Post

SAN ANTONIO, Jan. 27-A slush funds and juggled figures to win excessive telephone rate increases. / confimed today that the grand jury has subpoenaed "several" witnesses involved in the tangled charges against the company, the third most profitable in the Bell system with 1973 revenues of $2.3 billion. Shovlin declined to say how many persons were subpoenaed, who they were, or what the grand jury wanted to know from

However, James H. Ashley, 45, fired Oct. 31 as general commercial manager for the company here, today con-firmed that he was subpoenaed to appear Tuesday before the grand jury.

His attorney, Pat Maloney, said he assumes that the grand jury will ask his client about the charges he has made against his former employer, which Ashley and others are suing for $29.2 million in state district court.

Roy Minton of Austin, attorney for former Bell Austin division manager Bill Holman, also confirmed that Holman has been asked to appear Tuesday. Holman is now on "special assignment" as supervisor of a smaller district in | personal, not corporate. Howcluding Victoria, Tex.

Holman charged in a confederal grand jury here has versation tape-recorded by men to do business with the subpoenaed at least two per- Ashley that is now part of holder of a city franchise. sons who have charged that court records here that he Southwestern Bell Telephone made contributions for the commission. Cities individudates in Austin, sought exces- quests. sive rate increases there, and gave business contracts to council candidates in hopes of head of Texas operations for U.S. Attorney Hugh Shovlin buying their support for proposed local rate increases.

> City councilmen in San Antonio, Austin, Fort Worth, and tensive company investigation Dallas recently have acknowledged receiving business con- because the company believed tracts or campaign contribu- they were going to expose the tions from Bell officials. They alleged practices. The suit also have said the business con-charged that the investigation tracts did not influence them and alleged harassment led to and that they considered the the mid-October suicide of campaign contributions to be Gravitt.

ever, a councilman has resigned in Austin where the city charter forbids council

Co. maintained illegal political company to city council candi- ally act on rate increase re-

Ashley and the widow and sons of T. O. Gravitt, former Southwestern Bell, filed the $29.2 million civil suit here Nov. 15, charging that an inof both officials was launched