anel Vote Softens Rule on Disclosing Agents' Names broader bill is House Majority Leader Jim Wright (D-Fex.), who told Ed.

Washington Post Staff Writer

the names of CIA operatives working that would make it a crime to disclose most controversial provisions of a bill tee yesterday moved to eliminate the Acting in the face of a Republican boycott, a House Judiciary subcommitby outsiders, such as journalists. too outlaw such disclosures by present and past government officials, but not By a vote of 5 to 1, the subcommit-tee on constitutional rights decided would avoid the "constitutional pit-falls" of the more sweeping measure approved in recent weeks by both the House and Senate Intelligance committees. Rep. Robert F. proposed the change, said it Drinan (D-Mass.)

"Betrayal of trust is what needs to be punished," he said in urging that the bill be restricted to present and past government officials who learn of their official positions. the identity of covert agents by virtue

The broader bill approved by the intelligence committees was aimed in large measure at anti-CIA periodicals Bulletin, which regularly prints the impede their work names of CIA operatives in order to such as the Covert Action Information

> To outlaw such publications, how-ever, the bill would allow the prosecu-tion of any journalist—even one reshow an intent to impair or impede U.S. foreign intelligence activities. Registersas old State Department Biograppic lying on unclassified information such -if the government could attempt by disclosing the names of the agents involved in the scheme. "We're doing our best to bring out a would make it a crime, for example, to try to head off a CIA assassination chairman of the Judiciary subcommit-tee on constitutional rights, sai this Rep. Don Edwards (D-Calif.), the constitutional bill," he said after yes-terday's vote. He said the measure would be brought before the full House Judiciary Committee next week.

Of the subcommittees six Democrats, only Rep. Harold L. Volkmer (D-Mo.) voted to limit the bill to past and present government officials. The three Republicans on the panel stayed away from the meeting, apparently in hopes of preventing it from obtaining a quorum.

The bill was referred to the Judiciary Committee because the Intelliary Committee because the Intelliary Committee because the Intelliary Committee because the Judician Committee and Committee the Judician Committee and Committee the Judician Committee the Judicia outlaw the disclosure of any agents or informers of the FBI's counterintelligence Committee version would also gence or counterterrorist units.

with Volkmer dissenting. take them out, again by a 5-to-1 vote, Intelligence Committee for adding them to the bill "as a kind of after-thought." The suchommittee voted to dence that FBI agents or sources are in peril, and he criticized the Honse

"The FBI has only a handful of em-ployes who operate covertly outside the United States," Edwards said. He "said FBI officials have acknowledged bureau's agents or sources because of that no harm has befallen any of the

The broader versions approved by the House and Senate Intelligence committees were rushed through after a July 4 attack on the home of the CIA station chief in Jamaica. His that view has little support on Capitol contended that the attack was staged to gain sympathy for the agency, but co-editor of the Covert Action Information Bulletin, Louis Wolf, Wolf has name had just been disclosed by the it, ' Edwards said after his subcommit it's approaching hysteria. "It has a lot of momentum. Some say tee reported out the limited version. Among those "This bill has a steamroller behind pushing Judiciary Committee has legislative jurisdiction over the FBI.

Edwards said he knew of no eviwards in a letter Monday that he considered it "of vital importance."

legislation was made painfully clear once again by the July 4 machine-gunning of the home of a member of our embassy staff in Jamaica." Wright ment before Congress adjourns amendment" in order to ensure enacturged Edwards to report out the Intel-ligence Committee version "without "The purpose and the need for this said. "The 96th Congress may be just-ly accused of dereliction if it falls to complete action on this bill."