rensen withdraws as CIA nominee head the Central Intelligence Agency, standing aside to avoid a Senate con-Sorensen withdrew on Monday as-President-elect Carter's nominee to WASHINGTON (AP) - Theodore C.

dedicated man." out of the controversy about Sorensen's loss of "an extremely talented and telligence post, but said he regretted the record and credentials for the top inhandicapped the new administration. Carter agreed that was the best way til a new appointee is named and confirmed, the CIA apparently will be run by E. Henry Knoche, a 25-year director. agency veteran now serving as deputy after the inauguration on Thursday. Unnew nominee for the CIA post some time A spokesman said Carter will choose a > proceedings. Only one, Atty. Gen.-designate Griffin B. Bell, faced appeared before the Senate committees at relatively routine confirmation casualty of the new administration, three top-level Carter appointees controversy, and his approval seemed virtually assured despite his critics. While Sorensen was becoming the first firmation fight he said would have

"scurrilous and unfounded personal classification as a conscientious John F. Kennedy and his draft attacks against me" by opponents who questioned his use of classified Sorensen withdrew after denouncing Objector.

The 48-year-old New York attorney, agreement with his view of the way the opposition really stemmed from disonce Kennedy's righthand man, said the CIA should function.

Sorensen told the Senate Intelligence Committee he was withdrawing because confirmation. there was enough opposition to point to a divisive controversy about his

Senate office building to tell Carter of his He said he used a pay telephone in the committee hearing on his nomination. decision, minutes before the initial controversy. fects of a divisive and emotional In Plains, Ga., Carter said Sorensen's action was "designed to spare the administration and the country the ef-