Dear Mr. Weisberg:

I am writing back again and hope you received last week's letter and doing reasonably well. Enclosed are two photos. I was wondering if you could autograph the back of one and return in enclosed envelope.

I also had one or two additional questions on this Lovelady matter. There is an attorney named Kenneth Brooten of Winter Park, Florida, whom I believe played a role in the House Assassination Committee that according to that newspaper article I sent you last Week became Lovelady's or his family's private attorney at the time of his seclusion. This dual role seemed a bit strange to me.

What exactly was Brooten's role on the HSCA? How did he endear himself to Lovelady or his family to represent him privately? Do you think this Brooten has information on the shirt? I would suppose he would attempt to fall back on attorney-client privilege or claim confidentiality...

As always,

Frank A. Cellura

Dear Frank,

Ken Brosten was a Florida lawyer who was associated with Texas Congressman Gonzalez and for a short period after Spragus was fired was chief counsel. I know him slightly and liked him. It was probably because he'd met the Loveladys when he was on the Commission that he became their lawyer. Which I'd not know. Ken was present some weeks before it happened when I told Spragus he would be fired, that what he was doing would not be tolerated in any Congress.

Thanks for the picture and the SASE. Pressed for time so it all helps.

Lil came home yesterday. She is still feeble.

I've no idea what Ken does or does not know about the shirt. Ask him.

I do not have any address but if he is still in practice he'll be in Martindale, Hubbell. Was in Central FL, where the Univ and its Law school are.

Thanks and best,

Garold
