Dear George,

Relet 12: I could not now defend my belief, but it is that there was something like the Cheramie incident. I have uncomfortable information there was Feebee N.O. involvement overheard by Thornley, who is said to have told someone after one of his interviews (Secret Service then handling dope cases). Generally, on Penn and Turner, my opinion is that each for different reasons is capable of the grossest inaccuracy and the record on this is abundant.

I do not now have clear recollections of what each wrote.

I have heard nothing from anyone on Bradley suit. I'd like to be able to help some of those people, so, if you collect a file, please keep me posted on its contents in the event it turns out I can help.

Sincerely,

Harold Weisberg

When Gary returns from Dallas he will have more to tell you about others and their copies of radio logs. They are now willing to exchange. I have spoken to them. Theirs is incomplete but said to be official copy. I said this was not my material but I would (and do) recommend this.

Dear Harold,

Agreed completely on Uncle Chester. Scaring him off is the last thing that should happen. My friends wrote him a thank-you-and-gimme note that was just a reminder of his offer, and there it stands. If further prodding is necessary, I may come unstage. I'm already jotting down appropriate ack-ack from the King James Old Testament (Uncle Chester's bag). He also thinks the Commies did in JFK, and I have no intention whatever of disabusing him. As long as he has those tapes, I'll play any game he wants.

One question (don't bother if you lack the time and/or inclination): is the Cheramie incident reasonably accurate, either the Jones or Turner version? What corroboration is there for it?

Regards,

WJZ
