TRISTRAM COFFIN

November 26, 1968

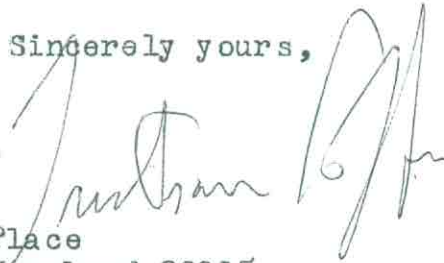

Dear Mr. Weisberg:

A friend of yours, Mr. Sam Abbott, called and said you were interested in an article in The Examiner on the Kennedy assassination. I write these things so far ahead, I am not sure what I may have written, or whether he was referring to a staff article.

So, if you can refresh my memory (I don't get the Examiner until much later) I'll try to answer your question.

In the meantime, you may be interested to know that a French newspaper has strongly hinted that DeGaulle knows who the John Kennedy assassin is. My source is John B. Paine, Jr., Room 408, 84 State Street, Boston, Mass, 02109, who saw the French newspaper in the Harvard Library. Mr. Paine is an avid collector of information on the assassin, and, like yourself, believes the true story has not been uncovered. According to this version, deGaulle learned the information from his own intelligence service.

Sincerely yours,
