Mr. Alan Dale

Dear Alan,

I have to be in New York City next week. I'll phone you once I am located and tell you where I'll be. I'll give you the number from which I'll be calling you or, if you prefer, the number at which you can phone me.

You may remember I am to do the show beginning at 11:05 our time, which is an hour later than yours, May 3rd.

The timing is particularly good, for I am to get an award the next day and there will be a press conference in connection with it. Thus, if there is any attention to the press conference that reaches down to your territory, you will have been in advance of it.

I hope you will have been able to read the book by then. If you have not, as you know, all you need do is point me and I'll go where you want.

One line I hope you will feed me is Foreman, have we ever had a confrontation, have I ever heard from him, etc. I wrote him while doing the book, told him how it looked to me, asked him if he could give me any reason to feel other than as I did, that it seemed he had taken the case just to prevent a trial, and he never replied. I sent it certified and have the receipt. He was to have done a TV show in New York, to have been taped 3/18. He flew up from Texas, had his make-up half on when he learned he would be confronting me, and he fled, half made up. I did the show without him. I wrote him thereafter, in response to something less than manly threats that he had left behind to be delivered to me, although he was then but a few feet down the hall. He has not responded to that, either. He had sent me word that ~~if~~ if I knew what is good for me, I'd stay out of his way. In essence I told him we had different concepts of what I considered good for me and that I considered the best way for me was to confront him in Houston, where he'd not have to be taking a plane, under any conditions he elected. If you've read the book, he know how little chance there is of his ever facing me anywhere.

Recently I referred someone interested in the pistoleros to you. I've forgotten who, but I'll never forget your story.

I'm looking forward to this. I don't think we've ever done a show that wasn't a good one, and fresh and hot as this material is, I think we can do one of the best.

Sincerely,

Harold Weisberg
