

Dear Mr. Weisberg,

I have to write to apologize. I made an error in my earlier letter, as you are probably aware. It is the Stemmons sign that you see in the Zapruter film. Directly in front of the sign is the third road stripe, right after it the fourth. This of course means Kennedy was hit around F180-190, and the tree would block the shot from the sixth floor window. I believe everything else I pointed out is accurate. I also think, from lining up what would be Altgans position on Shannyfeilds map that, his picture shows the fourth stripe under the follow-up car, and the limo is at the fifth stripe. This does not alter your basic premise very much, as the first shot still comes too early. I've also noticed that at about F330-334 it seems that the windshield gets hit and broken. Maybe you've seen this and know what it is. I'm sorry to have given wrong info, but it really takes some looking to catch all of this, and I have an eye problem that also complicates things. But still, I must be more careful.

Thank you for your time.

John Emma.
