Lie-Detector Sleuthing Hardly New

By Jack Anderson

The FBI's use of lie detectors to locate news leaks may be upsetting to the New York Times. But for us, it's strictly routine.

Long ago, we became resigned to this sort of intimidation. We've counted as many as 18 FBI agents at one time searching for our sources. They've used not only lie detectors but third-degree methods and grand jury subpoenas.

The latest investigation was touched off, the press reported, by a New York Times State Department after the ap- commander in Vietnam, had account on July 22 of the secret U.S. position at the strategic arms limitation talks.

Actually, Attorney General John Mitchell began investi-He ordered the FBI, specifi- tion; cally, to find out who was slipping us Pentagon secrets often intended for the "eyes only" of the top brass.

Military gumshoes grilled room 3E993 at the Pentagon. FBI agents followed up, flashing their credentials and asking terse questions. Lie detec- Hannah. tors were used; some suspects were questioned.

At least one suspect, a mild, ered, threatened, cursed and, finally, subpoenaed to appear takes and to manage the news before a federal grand jury in for political purpose?

as the time of day.

tings admitted to us afterward tor in Kenya. It was classified, ment (and produced the most that a "fedral agency" had we believe, solely to spare the intensive investigation) was broadened his investigation of sensitive information. We renews leaks. Then, in July, the ported, for example, that Gen. gumshoes moved into the Creighton Abrams, the U.S. on to the White House and pearance of three more sensitive stories:

Triple Threat

1. The New York Times account by William Beecher giving details of the U.S. bargaingating news leaks last spring, ing position on arms limita-

2. Another New York Times report by Tad Szulc about arms shipments to Pakistan; and

3. A column by us quoting suspects behind the doors of from a State Department message that had been hand-carried in a sealed envelope to promising to curtail it. U.S. AID Administrator John

Were these news leaks prejwere tailed; their neighbors udicial to the national interest," as State Department spokesman Robert McCloskey stamp to cover up their mis-that he had given us so much Ambassador to Kenya, Robin- Fire." son McIlvaine, on the high-U.S. Attorney Brian Get- jinks of the AID administra- caused the most embarrasssuggested he go after Smith. involved officials from embarrassment.

But admittedly, the Penta-With the publication of the gon investigation was trig- Thieu's private communica-Pentagon papers, Mitchell gered by our publication of tions. These were picked up been asked to draw up top-secret contingency plans last October for a three-day, sevenday or ten-day aerial assault upon North Vietnam. We revealed no military details, except that the contingency plans included the bombing and mining of Haiphong harbor.

Here was evidence that President Nixon was prepar-ing plans to expand the war at the same time that he was

Official Discrepancy

We also revealed that MAC-SOG teams, composed of U.S. special forces and South Vietnamese rangers, continued to operate inside Cambodia and bespectacled Pentagon aide claimed? Or do government operate inside Cambodia and named Gene Smith, was badg- officials use the security Laos at the same time our spokesmen were claiming no American troops were in those countries. We cited secret so they won't give out infor-Let's take the message that messages, which referred to mation that their bosses don't But unhappily, the vaunted was delivered to Hannah in a FBI had fingered the wrong sealed envelope. This was a code name "Salem House" and Bell-McClure Syndlesie, man. Smith denied under oath | hush-hush report from our to the Laos raids as "Prairie

Perhaps the story that our disclosure that the United States had been intercepting South Veitnamese President and decoded by the National Security Agency, then passed other agencies. The intercepted messages were identified by the code name "Gout."

This unpleasant revelation, no doubt was awkward for the United States. But we strongly believe that, in a democracy, the people have the right to know what their officials are doing. Since no military security was involved, we published the story.

For the same reason, we reported that Adm. Thomas Moorer, the Joint Chiefs' chairman, received a "Flash" message after the daring Sontay raid informing him that the North Veitnamese prison compound hadn't been occupied for three months.

The real reason for the news-leak investigations, in our opinion is to scare government employees into silence

Bell-McClure Syndicate,