Mr. James J. Rowley, Director
U. S. Secret Service
Washington, D.C.

Dear Mr. Rowley:

As I wrote you & planned, last Friday I was able to review the Oswald film you gave or loaned the National Archives pursuant to my letter of December 9. Because this film is so much clearer than my other copies I've seen or than the copy of the spliced version of all four sequences permitted me by LBSU, I do hope you will arrange to have it available for others who may wish to examine it. And I thank you for this artful compliance with my request.

The FBI report I cited to you last refers to certain still pictures made available to the Secret Service at that time. This is confirmed by the DSU photographer, who still recalls this. As I have written you earlier, only some of these still pictures are in the Warren Commission files at the Archives. They should all be there, available to everyone.

Because response to my letter took almost two months, may I ask that, prior to having these stills or copies of them transferred, you permit me to examine them in your offices? This will take but a few moments. If I want any copies and if you or the Archives would then require written permission from LBSU, I could have time to get this while the transfer is being accomplished. I plan no publication for any of these pictures. If I did, the DSU permission to me would require their written consent, in my event. That is, permission, the conditions under which they supplied a copy of what remains in their files, is for study only and that is my only present purpose.

The identification of the 40-second of film you supplied goes into my chief interest. It says, specifically, that there were two men helping Oswald. At the best of my knowledge, the subsequent FBI investigation disclosed the name of but a single one. If the Secret Service, which, I regret, was inhibited in its New Orleans work at the time, can shed any light on this, I would welcome it at the same time, - have one my own investigating, how spoken to those your agents were precluded from interviewing (I recall this word with care), and, if your have continuing interest, will be happy to let you know just what I've learned in the confirmation I have developed. Two of these interviews are tape recorded, with the permission of those interviewed. If you're interested, you may hear and/or copy this tape, with the sole restriction preservation of my rights and confidence. I am in my files proof this was once of great interest to you.

Sincerely,

Harold Weisberg
