

Shirley- Russo
Saw Ferrie in company of Spanish-speaking persons dressed in green fatigue uniforms and helmets several times. Met Ferrie through CAP friend. This friend told Russo he was taking "jungle training" with Ferrie "to help bring about a more democratic government". The friend's family had contacted Russo in an effort to break
"Ferrer's hold on their son".

Jack Martin, according to an AP dispatch in the Dallas Morning News quoting <sup>7/6</sup> ~~the~~ a copyrighted story in the Houston Chronicle of the preceeding day, denied
"saying anything like that"
with reference to what the Secret Service quoted him as having told ~~K~~ Herman S.

Kohlman.

"Martin told the Chronicle he asked Ferrie
for a photograph of the young complainant (in a morals case against Ferrie) explaining, 'Ferrer had pictures of all these young kids that hung round him. He liked to dress them up in helmet liners, fatigues, and give them rifles, like they were playing soldiers."

Ferrie was a queer queer
