

Dear De,

3/1/92

A call from a British writer, Matt Smith, informs me that the Giancana book is being serialized in the Daily Express prior to publication in a few weeks and has created a bit of a stir.

Smith has just finished the ms. of his own book, "JFK: the Second Plot."

It now goes to the publisher, publication planned for early December.

Earlier in the winter he was here with the daughter he is fortunate to have.

She looked out for him that well and took care of what he forgot.

You may have heard that some Dallas police records are available. I do not know whether I told you but those so-called "tramps" were arrested and then were forgotten for three days, when they were turned loose, having had no connection with anything. I now have copies.

Or, if Garrison or Stone had talked to the police it would have been not quite the same movie.

Best,

Harold
