

Third-~~avenue~~ Steve Strikes Again!

This time even with a UPS label!

And without any question from the UPS driver. He just left it on the step and waved.

Even his timing was perfect: I really needed one and got it immediately.

When I saw only "Steve" and "Third Avenue," with a number I could not identify and so large a box, I suspected- nay, hoped!

He is a real pro.

He has styrofoam containers, each holding three, made with such precision it is a shame to discard them.

No shake, rattle and pop!

So, I just abandoned a stack of cardboard I was cutting to back books when I package and ship them, at, to my surprise, ~~in~~ an undiminished volume.

and enjoyed, doing nothing else, just sitting and sipping and enjoying and thinking how fortunate ~~is~~ it is to have such <sup>a</sup> thoughtful ~~a~~ friend with so resourceful a connection.

To whom sincere thanks!!!!

A man named Brown may be in touch. He says he is a former FBI agent and that he has a JFK/Oswald-is-innocent ms. He asked me for a suggestion, I gave him your name and address because all the trash is selling so very well. You may know someone who might be interested.

The media inquiries appear to have ended but the volume of letters and orders is at about the same high level. So people like C & G must be joyous.

I did get all of yesterday's orders packaged and ready for mailing this morning but with the extra medical appointments that left me no time, once again, for anything else.

Two more serious books are in the works. Prof. Dave Wrone submitted the first three chapters of his book to Wiley and as I think I told you, Gerald Posner is working on one for the future for RUI. Wrone will be here this coming weekend for me to help him further with his.

It is a fine, single-malt Scotch. When I sip it I ~~was~~ will also enjoy the thought that came with it.

For both, sincere thanks!

Hand
To Richard Gallen, who sent me six Glenlivet, a 12 year old single-malt Scotch that is as good as it is expensive.
