

Dear Gerry and Dennis,

3/25/95

I've thought a little about the book you plan. I presume you intend offering it to a university press but what came to mind would <sup>also</sup> be appropriate elsewhere. What did come to mind is the prejudice against the subject matter and a possible means of addressing that in advance.

Your paper draws heavily on my work and on Sylvia's. The record with regard to I believe both and I'm certain <sup>mine</sup> ~~main~~ is that not a single person has written or phoned me to complain that I was unfair to him or inaccurate in what I wrote about him. After 30 years and all I wrote about. Jerry has gone over all of Sylvia's papers at Hood and can tell you whether she got any complaints and if so what they were.

On any subject this is, I think, an exceptional ~~and~~ record that should mean something to any with open minds.

And as it happens the records of both are ~~and~~ have been open to inspection by anyone.

If you use your paper as a <sup>bm</sup> submission for consideration you can add something like the above to it in one of the notes. There it might <sup>f</sup> also serve a purpose if and when you submit the paper for publication.

Lil seems to be recovering well although with little interest in food. She has had a potato or two, jello, of which I got her a half-dozen more flavors yesterday morning and last evening she took a slice of plain bread, nothing on it, whole-wheat. In the early-morning shopping I saw a fine buy in potted hearty mums for $1.98 instead of four dollars more, so I took her to get the one she wanted, to the bank and she went with me when I did my p.t. She is OK enough now for me to take my usual morning of walking before the lab opens and p.t. after it.

We think she may eat rice so for lunch today or tomorrow we'll go to Hana's where she'll eat only plain rice and that will keep Nicole from worrying when she does not see Lil for a while, until this diet is over.

Or, I guess we were lucky.

Best to all,

Harold
