

Post 11/14/78
 my picture if you don't want to get thrown out of here."

On the political front, Dick Gregory says he is planning to run in Massachusetts for Edward Kennedy's seat in the U.S. Senate in four years.

Gregory, a comedian and civil rights activist, told WNAC-TV in Plymouth, Mass., that he would run against Kennedy in the 1982 Democratic primary. Gregory said that for the first time, Kennedy had campaigned against Sen. Edward Brooke, the nation's only black senator and a Republican, who lost last Tuesday to Paul Tsongas. Kennedy had not stumped for Brooke's previous rivals.

The U.S. Navy's Donald Duck gob cap and bell-bottom trousers are making experimental reappearances in Sydney, Australia and so far have been rated overwhelming hits.

At least, that's what the sailors of the U.S.S. Niagara Falls are saying about the "crackerjack" uniforms of World War II vintage. The Navy supply ship is visiting Sydney on its way to the Philippines and is one of only a few equipped with the old-style uniforms.

Said crewman Hank Tilli, 28: "The girls say we really look like sailors in this uniform, not like businessman."

Minutes before the case was to have been called to trial yesterday in Manhattan Federal Court former NBC correspondent Elie Abel, through his attorney, told Judge Lee Gagliardi that he had reached an out-of-court settlement in his copyright infringement suit against the American Broadcasting Company. Terms of the settlement were not disclosed.

Abel filed his law suit in February 1975 charging that ABC and scriptwriter Stanley R. Greenberg "largely copied" from his 1966 book "The Missile Crisis" for the ABC network television show "The Missiles of October" which was televised on Dec. 18, 1974.

In "Missiles of October," actors portrayed such people as President John F. Kennedy, Robert Kennedy, Dean Rusk, Robert McNamara, Adlai Stevenson, Andrei Gromyko and others involved in the Cuban crisis.

Elie Abel has been dean of the Columbia University Graduate School of Journalism for the last nine years. He is leaving Columbia next February to join the faculty of Stanford University.

—Ellen I. Goldman
and John Kennedy

Dick Gregory