

11/3/66

Dear Mr. Hill,

Even more, with yesterday's developments and what is pending to add to my normally heavy work load, and I am now too busy to write much of a letter.

I could not make out some of your letter. I did write Mr. Urban immediately. I certainly thank you for speaking to him and Mr. Gilliland, from whom I have not yet heard. We mail each day's orders the day they come in, so if we get one from him, it will go out that day.

I wrote the Times-Herald a challenging letter. I doubt they'll print it.

To the best of my knowledge, there is no edition of the 26 volumes other than the hardback Government set. These cost $76.00 and cannot be purchased separately.

Bantam did a paperbacked edition of the Report alone.

I do not have and would like a copy of Red Roses of Texas. The author is Nerin Gun. Cong. Ford's book was printed by Simon and Schuster and is available in normal channels. I do not have it simply because I cannot afford it.

Thank you for your kindnesses.

Sincerely,

Harold Weisberg

My dear Mr. Weisberg:

I talked to Mr. Urban
of Commerce Street News stand and Mr. Gilliland Mgt of Bookley's Book Stores about whitewash and gave the letter your name and address. He said he would order
from you today. Mr Urban expects to hear from you as I told him of my letter to you yesterday. When you have whitewash
on the shelves or stands of such two booksellers the Dallas Area will be completely

opened to whitewash.
where present demand
is unmet.

Mr. Gilliland ~~is~~ inquired as to a source
from which the entire record of the proceedings before
the Warren Commission in 26 or 27 volumes of paperbacks
could be had. I told him that I am not aware of such work's availability but that we has order to you for whenever ask he might inquire. I need ~~the~~ a copy of such at

well, also a copy of Gerald Ford's Portrait of the Assassin
and Red Roses of Texas
or some such title
which I understood
was English authored and printed. Any information which
