Dear Mary,

We hope that your mother and you are doing as well as is possible for both of you. We have some understanding of such situations from having lived through them in both our families. In fact a possibly similar situation faces us with no willing daughter. We have had his and her canes for some months, have both had walkers prescribed (Lil uses one from time to time) and "il has been told she'll need a hip replaxement anyday now.

I was disappointed that you did not return my work on your thesis to me before you returned home, as you'd promised. Not only do I want it, a college professor friend I'm helping on a book was here and I'd have like him to be able to read it and draw upon some of it if he wanted to. I hope you will do that when it is possible for you. If you want a xerox, I'll pay for the xerox for you to at some time in th future use if you'd like to.

There is something I hope you once did for me that you can remember.

I had been keeping a large collection of reminiscences in stationery boxes in my office. I needed that boxes so I transferred their contents and to recover the space in my office had them taken to the basement. I do not remember whether you did that for me or what I used. It could have been a reddish accordian-type folder with a tie or it could have been second-hand large envelopes. If you remember taking them to the basement for me I'd like very much to know where you think you put them.

Unwilling as you seem to be to believe it, you did very well on the part of your honors paper you let me see and I believe it has the potential I forecast as you did it. I hope you'll have the interest to go over the suggestions I made and to file a corrected copy with Hood, where it can be of value in the future.

As I told you, I'm willing to go over the last two chapters if I've never seen and make any suggestions I see.

You did a very fine job. I wish others could see and use it.

Best wishes,

Harold
