Jack Anderson

We have obtained Xerox copies of the Howard Hughes pa-Hank Greenspun.

documents, most of them ig Hughes' own hand scrawl, add lionaire and President Nixon.

his memos, Hughes is revealed tional Hotel in Las Vegas. as an eccentric tycoon, obsessed with secrecy, who hatched multi-million-dollar power

From 1966 to 1970, he ruled his financial empire from the guarded penthouse of a Las Vegas hotel-casino, communicating with his executives by memo and telephone. He wouldn't let mourned the breakup of their marriage, blaming it upon an in-slightest hint being accidennocent side.

getting a dozen handwritten Hughes ordered aides to offer financial backing to both presidential candidates in the 1968 election. But he expected Richard Nixon to win "under our sponsorship and supervision," as Hughes put it, "every inch of the way.'

tician who might be in a posi-sages through his aide William invite Bill up here and not to tion to help the Hughes interest. Gay. Once he directed aides to permit him to be privy to our ac-

Hughes plunged into each little to what is already known new financial scheme with a about the undercover relation-passion. Please clear the decks ship between the reclusive bil-and fasten your seat belt," he scribbled to Maheu on April 19, But the papers offer a fasci-1968, "because I have a block-nating self-portrait of America's buster." It was a plan to trade celebrated mystery man. From the Stardust for the Interna-grabs and thought he could ma- his schemes that he lost all settle down. But again, he kept sipulate the nation's political track of day and night. "I sup- her at across-the-room distance. pose you know I have not been She put up with it for three days. to sleep at all, he wrote Maheu on April 24, 1968, "So I am going to sit up now until we hear something."

The phantom billionaire repeatedly insisted upon total sehis wife near him, then crecy. He didn't want "the most microscopic chance of the We reported a small part of stressed a typical memo. Anthe story in August, 1971, after other time, he declared that his informants "put their very lives Hughes memos. We wrote that in jeopardy with some of the disclosures they make to me, and if they thought this information went to anybody—no matter Maheu tried to defend Gay, whom—they would not continue contending: "Bill Gay came forto inform me."

movie actress Jean Peters, on a complained angrily from his yo-yo string. He would disap-hermitage atop The billionaire also had cash pear for long stretches and send casino: "I thought that when we to spare for the most lowly poli- her endearing but false mes- came here, and I told you not to Hughes' entourage.

pers, which the Watergate burglars had planned to steal from the safe of Las Vegas publisher

in Los Angales Haward

Total tent and restricted in the Molecular tent and restricted in the Molecul in Los Angeles, Howard, we on the desert. Yet all the time, tween Hughes and Maheu was The two-inch thick stash of throughout the year."

take very good care of them he was only a few miles from throughout the year."

their Bel Air, Calif. home. their Bel Air, Calif., home, watching endless movies and eating chocolate bars at a private studio.

> In 1965 he promised to have Thanksgiving dinner with her. But because of his fear of germs, he told her to sit across the room from him. She walked out in a huff.

The following year, he per-The memos show that Hughes suaded her to join him in Boston often became so absorbed with where he promised they would

> But when the marriage broke up, he blamed Gay who had merely carried the messages back and forth. Hughes complained bitterly: "Bill's total indifference and laxity to my pleas for help in my domestic area, voiced urgently to him, week by week through the past 7 to 8 years, have resulted in a complete, I am afraid irrevocable loss of my wife. I am sorry but I blame Bill completely for this unnecessary debacle.'

ward when everyone else collapsed and was ready to protect Hughes kept his last wife, you to the hilt." But Hughes the hotel-

After typical instructions from rent a motel suite on the Mojave tivities, you had realized that I stormy. Most of their quarrels were over petty matters. A clash over office space, for example, brought Maheu to the brink of resigning in early February, 1968.

"Last week," wrote Maheu in a Very Conf." note to the industrialist, "you mentioned to me that there are times you get the feeling that I think you have been in this world for 12 years instead of 62. I sometimes get the feeling that you think I am still in my mother's womb rather than being 50 years of

But the quarrels would end in reconciliation, with expressions of fidelity to one another. On May 6, 1968, Hughes wrote to his subordinate:

Now, Bob, it is my intention to remove as many as possible of the irritating features of our relationship. In this connection, I have decided not to ask you to write me any more messages in longhand and sealed envelopes. I know this is time consuming for you, and my men think I don't trust them. So, in the future except in rare instances, I prefer you dictate your reply to my messages via telephone and whichever of my men happens to be on duty."

Two years later the two men broke up and they are fighting out their differences in court, William Gay, on the other hand, is now a trusted member of