Dear Buck,

Thanks for the exposure this morning.

I do hope some of your listeners order! In order to print this book Lesar had to borrow $6,000 on which we are paying interest and we have and can have no organized distribution.

After you phoned a British filmmaker who is in New York and after two weeks did not have the copies I mailed phoned the wholesaler who does have copies. He could find nobody there who knew it. I have had call from others saying their bookstores don't have and "can't" get.

I plan to make a special trip into town in the morning to save a day in getting these to you and to put replacements on Greyhound for him. (We live in the country. A rural man delivers and picks mail up once a day but it is evening before that mail leaves.)

I am sending you damaged copies of the first three Whitewash books. These are mine and because they are slightly damaged I don't sell them. The copy of Frame-Up, of course, is new and undamaged. If you can see your way clear to pay for the IV it would help Jim pay the bank by that much. There were delays in appearance that had the note come due before the books could be sold, before printing!

Please just add the actual postage on the wrapper. At this moment I don't know what it will be.

I've made countless broadcasts but this was my first to Hawaii. It was below freezing here when you phoned.

Thanks and best wishes,

Harold Weisberg
