Rep. Runnels Defends Buying of Arms Data

says there wasn't anything to interview generals in pri- Pentagon." But, he added, "It didn't want to cause them emimproper in his purchase for vate hearings and to impress $2,000 of information on Penhis colleagues. tagon weapons projects.

Rep. Harold L. Runnels said that to the best of his knowledge the men he bought the information from did not work for the Pentagon. And, he added, "they did not sell me nor did I buy classified information."

Runnels, a Democrat and a operaton."

The Detroit News, in a story bought classified documents with had worked for the Penta-from three men last summer." gon.

A New Mexico congressman better information with which they never did work for the men he dealt with, saying he Runnels said he purchased information on procurement of tanks and Cheyenne helicopters, indicating he wanted the data as part of his own investigation into cost overruns on Pentagon weapons contracts.

"It's fascinating to me that member of the House Armed the private sector can come Services Committee, said press much closer to their original accounts have made his pur- estimates than what we do in chase of the information ap our Department of Defense." pear to be a "cloak-and-dagger the second-term congressman said.

Runnels said in a telephone Sunday by Seth Kantor, quoted interview that press accounts Runnels as saying "that he hinted that the men he dealt didn't make any difference to barrassment. He said he me. I wanted someone with expertise to conduct a project analysts starting their own business."