

Dear Dave,

12/4/97

That is another good thing about computers when it gets a son to visit his father more often!

I've been meaning to ask you, did Hall get to be pres. of Ohio State?

Ray's condition remains critical but some times not as critical. He is still hoping for a transplant, as is his family and the friend who is in touch with me.

The State has an obvious interest in his not getting that transplant, which means he's time will run and he'll not be able to get a trial which the State could not win from the work I did years ago. I lack confidence in what his present lawyer is up to, He ain't Jerry Mason

You are lucky to be able to follow interests in further education. -nvy you!

Thanks for the clipping. Please try to remember to identify them.

The records I got via FOIA, of the Memphis FBI office, reflect that it snet petty much of the political stuff and the personal stuff on activists to that Atlanta base of Army domestic intelligence.

If I remember correctly, even when a ten-year old bagged school!

Thanks and best,

Dear Harold,

I thought you might find the enclosed of interest. Probably something you already knew, but maybe hasn't been in print lately. Interesting that James Earl Ray has been critical for about a year. He's hanging on pretty well considering the condition he was supposed to be in.

This week has turned cold. Winter is finally here. Last week was drizzly but almost warm.

I'll be taking a course in Art History at Ohio State winter quarter. Five hours credit, twice a week for 2 hours each. Undergraduate this time, more work, but probably of more interest.

My youngest Stephen has been coming over a little more lately, since I got the computer this summer. He has some courses in it in school already. We're just about to go to his basketball practice.

I hope this finds you both well. Take care

Sincerely,
Dwe
