

Hayfoot, Strawfoot

BY WILLIS E. STONE

IN THE EARLY DAYS OF OUR NATION, Mr. Average Man was either a farmer or a craftsman with little or no formal education. Some were even beyond deficiency in the three R's — actually not knowing the difference between left and right. (Hands and feet, that is.)

As militiamen recruited to fight the British Redcoats, these raw tillers of the soil and cobblers of shoes were not quick to grasp military procedures. Somewhere in the annals of history may be recorded the name of the first drill sergeant to stuff a tuft of hay next to a militiaman's left shoe and a tuft of straw next to the right. Instead of LEFT . . . RIGHT . . . LEFT . . . RIGHT . . . the nomcom intoned "Hayfoot . . . Strawfoot . . . Hayfoot . . . Strawfoot . . ." And there was no mistaking what he had in mind.

Nor was there any mistaking what Willis Stone had in mind as he recently addressed an overflow crowd in a western city on the ways in which Government squanders our money without Constitutional authority. This record album presents that brilliant speech, as recorded "on location."

"Hayfoot, Strawfoot" makes it possible for you to join this entranced audience again and again as they listen to one of America's most articulate patriots define the terms of our freedom under the Constitution. Benjamin Franklin said: "We have given you a Republic . . . keep it if you can." And now, with the Republic facing the greatest threats it has ever known, Willis Stone tells us HOW it CAN be kept!

HOW DID REAGAN WIN ?

Strong image? Potent Public Relations? Solid organization? Sound financing? Dedicated worker bees buzzing door-to-door in every precinct?

Certainly. Each of these factors contributed mightily to the dramatic landslide victory of California's Conservative new Governor.

But astute political observers will tell you that the real launching pad for Ronald Reagan's spectacular rise was a speech, entitled "RENDEZVOUS WITH DESTINY," made on TV by Reagan 'way back in the twilight of the '64 presidential campaign.

This was the speech that suddenly alerted a nation to the reality that here, indeed, was a man of destiny.

This was the speech that launched a statesman.

Following the telecast, we asked Reagan if we could release the sound track as a record album. He agreed.

"RENDEZVOUS WITH DESTINY" was an instantaneous best seller. A consistent seller ever since, it became a primary tool in the campaign for the Governorship. It has now become virtually an audio textbook for Conservative candidates running for offices at all levels across the nation.

This record belongs in the library of every American who hopes to make an effective contribution to the saving of our Constitutional Republic. It is an expertly drawn blueprint for rebuilding the tottering, crumbling foundation of our national sovereignty.

"RENDEZVOUS WITH DESTINY" is available from your dealer, or directly from KEY RECORDS at the address below. Price: $3.98 postpaid, plus 16c sales tax if you live where 10% of all Americans now live, in California. Add 25c for speedy SPECIAL HANDLING postage.
