Dear Harv and,

I've just come accross my copy of Carlson's "Under Cover". It reminds me that, as I recall, you loaned your copy to someone at my request (was it Garrison?) and nover got it back. I'll send this one if it is the case, but if it is Garrison, let me know and I'll ask his chief investigator to get it back. I think he might - will, unless Garrison has loaned it to someone else.

So, if you've lost your book, do not worry. It will be replaced. This copy is in good shape, save that the dust jacket is too dry and tends to crack when it is handled.

Wish you'd had a chance to read COUP D'ETAT. I'll be adding an epilogue which will accuse Foreman of selling his client out. I have the so-called "evidence" and it amounts to nothing - certainly nothing that would stand ordinary, competent cross-examination. It should have been one of Foreman's easier cases.

The daughter of a friend is going to the Bay area to take a few courses at Berkeley. She wants to write. She thinks for the underground press. I gave her a few names of those who might help her there. However, I told her is she wanted to do what I regarded as more serious things, either writing, radio, TV, like helping produce a show, to seek your advice. Her name is Stephanie Cherry.

Hope you are all well, prospering, and happy in your new and still-beautiful place. I've been sick, not seriously. It left me week and I'm trying to rebuild myself by taking down some of the trash trees that have grown like weeds, things like that. A little poops me but it also makes me feel good.

Wish I thought I'd be seeing you soon again.

Best,
