

Dear Bill,

11/17/95

Thanks for the effort with Jane Morris. With the anniversary coming up perhaps she'll phone. I was to have had the now mandatory emissions test that day but not remembering it was the anniversary but worried about dangerous driving I was there before it opened yesterday morning and have that day now free. I have no reason to anticipate any calls, however. But I'll be here in the event there are some.

It is a good letter and a good review. Thanks.

No word about barracuda so I guess your vacation was not as eventful as last year.

What is eventful here is that we have a bright, sunny day, no precip although cold. We've not had much sun lately and the water level in the pool is four inches higher.

We were lucky with the storms. No real damage. Only some branches down near the house and a few trash trees not near it.

There were long periods w/o electric current all around and many large trees block roads and smashing homes.

The loss of current is a concern for me. I can no longer use the stove or even bring wood up as I did for years for any emergency.

Now that I've caught up on the writing I had planned maybe I can catch up on some other things.

I've much copying to do for Dennis, about 50 chapters of Inside.

The woman who had been doing that retyping finally did give me the cassette. Only it turns out that several chapters are of only a page or so. That cannot be the original of which I have her printout. I've ~~xxx~~ written and asked her for the original so far without response. I suppose I can repleven her, if not more, but I hate to take the time and she is young. I do not want anything like that on her record.

But if any of your law books has a form for such a write I'll appreciate copy. That can, at least as the beginning, save me fees. While I do not know what this does represent what is obvious is that she let someone have it because the original was complete. I read it word-for-word with the rough draft. She works in p.v. period in Washington and in the past including with the Congress, on what I do not know.

Hope you had a good vacation.

Best to you all,

Hardy
