Dear Harold and Lil:

I sent Marvin Packer Waketh the Watchman. I also send you a copy. Note that I wrote a short foreword. If you don't like it, tear it out!

As far as how much money you owe me for printing this book and sending you and the Packers a copy, I think you have it backwards.

What do I owe you and Lil for giving me inside knowledge of the two most heinous murders in modern American history? I told my brother, Weisberg has given me a million dollars worth of information. Whether I ever write a book or not is up to me, but if I did write one, at least it would now be accurate.

I can never, ever repay you two for what you have done for me. In addition to getting to meet Dave Wrone, McKnight, Dennis M. and Ginocchio, all of whom I intend to stay in touch with the rest of our lives, you have done one other thing you don't even know about.

When my father and I were forced out of the tractor dealership, I was in a pissed off mood and have been for about 12 years! It cost us a lot of money, and since my grandfather got killed working for the same company, we had more than money invested there.

At least with my study of the JFK and King murders, I have had something to take up my time besides being mad. I know it sounds fanatic, but when you grow up in a company, run the credit union and pension plan, go to the funerals and see the babies, it really hurts ones feelings to get forced out.

But between spending a lot of time with my dad, fishing and other stuff, and getting to know you two, becoming a "Weisbergian", I like to think I have advanced myself onto a higher plane. At least I have some way to use my intellectual pretensions!

I hope both of you are doing well. Try my bottled water theory. It works and is cheap. At the auto races, they get $3 for a can of beer and $2 for a bottle of water! I think it is a profit deal!

See that the Franklin Mint is selling copies of Jackie Kennedy's faux pearl necklace for about $200. At least it is not Nancy Reagan's.

I did do one thing recently. I wrote Howard Roffman a letter, praising his book. I did tell him that you had been ill. Never heard from him, guess he doesn't answer his fan mail. I do think he should try to get his book reissued. But I am sure he is busy.

I also enclose the Forbes on Lucasfilm. The guy has quite an empire.

Did see one thing recently that was quite amazing. PBS had a special on meteors, and whether a big one will ever strike the earth. The answer is yes it will, who knows how big or how many.

Anyway, they had some amazing footage in the Northwest US, where a meteor came in, ran along the horizon, bounced off the atmosphere, and went back into space, amazingly, a guy got it on film. Looked like a miniature sun. Unbelievable that gravity did not pull it in. If it had hit land, the force would have been equal to 12 Hiroshima bombs. Unreal.

Even better than a UFO!

Well, I better get back to work. Take care of yourself.

Love,

Bill
