Dear Harold:

Got your letters. Will try to get a copy of 'Hosty's Pudding' to send to that FBI agent .

Can you remind me what the disc that says Bogus is?

My problem is that I have some discs that are not compatible with my computer programs, so have not printed them all out.

Have not heard from Don Wilson, may give him a call.

Betsy was accepted into her PHD program. Happy about that. Got a nice letter from Clay Ogilvie. Seems like a sincere guy. Got a kick out of that Posner note! I had to buy his book the other day. I bought two copies of Never Again that had to be ordered. But Case Open is on backorder. Maybe is out of publisher's print.

Ran into a guy at a used record store who is a student at UK. I was in Lexington for legal seminars. Showed him an article on Jim Lesar and you-enclosed next time- and he said "Why would the FBI release all these records to a chicken farmer?" I said, you've been reading Harry Livingstone, haven't you?' Which startled him, he had at least been reading some of the books I donated to UK. Told him he needed to read Whitewash. Thinks it is ominous that you were in OSS.

But the important part is, I have befriended the dean of Chase Law School in Northern Kentucky, and he is going to let me make a presentation on JFK and Dr. King. Seemed real receptive.

Must go to court this afternoon. I have a few things to send you. A lot of political cartoons.

Did have one funny thing happen. Joseph Lambert, aid to Sen. Cooper, has been elected to Chief Justice of the Kentucky Supreme Court. He has been very nice to me. Congratulated him and told him that Sen. Cooper would be very proud of him. He told me he had been thinking of the Senator a lot lately. He remained friends with him till the end of his life.

I told the Chief Justice that he was my favorite Republican. He said knowing you, that is damning with faint praise! Nice guy, quite a politician.

Enjoyed going to Lexington to the seminars. Good to get out of the office. Let's all stay healthy for the summer.

Got a few minutes, so I continue. I agree about Starr. Steve Brill is a sharp guy, and he has already touched a few nerves. I do not like to see a case tried in the press, and that is exactly what they have done to Clinton. One reason that these things become such a feeding frenzy is that cable TV has at least quadrupled the number of talk shows. When I got back to my motel at 2:30 the other morning, they had a rerun of a show on Lewinsky. It was either that or watch Spills and Thrills, racing wrecks of the 90's, so I watched that. Reminds me why I did not become a race driver. But the constant rumble on the talk shows tends to exaggerate these cases.

I think Brill's new mag may be just the place for an article about the failure of the mainline press to review Case Open or Never Again. By the way, my books I ordered -Case Open_ did come in.

I got this article on Lesar off the computer. About the only JFK thing that was worth reading. But is a good thing, it gave me something to show Dean Short. He is interested in FOIA.

Hey, do you think Posner really is following in your footsteps? I like to think Ginocchio, MacDonald, and me are trying to do that a little more accurately!

We are well. I am great. Going to write a short note to Clay Ogilvie and go get a haricut.
