Dear Fred and,

(and the and is important-all of thom),

Your envelope of pictures arrived, I presume today, but I cannot be sure for I have not been able to get to the post diffice for several day and do not know which of the registered packages came earlier.

Got back from New Orleans Marricy, the day one of Jim's staff arrived. I've been working with him, rather intensively, until today, when he left. We went out on several rather productive investigations. With my wife laid up, I was also hostess, so the days were then the work was intensively with the lengthened by that added there. In short, I'm tired, and the accumulation of three weeks is stacked up, weiting and discouraging.

It was late this afternoon when I got the envelope. I immediately phoned an acquaintenes on a major publication to see if I can interest them. He was gone for the day. I'll keep you posted. I am impressed by the overlay and think maybe we can do something with it.

From now on I strongly urge that nothing not known to be directly related to the pending Shaw case alone be sent directly to Jim, for the confusion there is behand belief. I spent it days there and didn't see him the last five. He was so busy and so tired. So, I've had to write 40 pages of memos on what I did when I was there, and I've had to stop without finishing.

I think it is better that we finnel things in a nowe organized way You a number of ressons. The most obvious one is that able as so one there to co-ordinate the meterial. Most of it gets in the files without the staff knowing what it has. Also, the staff is now smaller. Men I amount there egain, I'll emploin further. More, when things are sent there by live messengers, the only identification of the meterial is usually with the messenger, and those who have done the work remain unknown. This, among other things, does not build their reputations and with that confidence in them. Along this line, I also encourage each one to but his name on his work.

On the Thornley picture, first, what is your opinion and second, markater years my applopies for not being more clear. I did not intend a boardel Oswald. I meent how much could Thornley have looked like the customarily next Oswald?

It had not been my intention to go to emurleans this trup, for I get further behind with each departure from the work I have echeduled. Also, I am now trying to do more coordinating. However, it now seems that the original investigations I have been conducting may soon require enother trip in the near future. If I can I'll keep all of you posted so I can try and bring what you are doing to proper attention.

My heaty thanks and fond regards to you all. I'll be sending some new material out soon-soon as I can get to it.

Sincerely,
