Dear Les,

When I learned my wife's appointment was for later than I'd believed I took more time in this letter to Jerry.

I'm mailing it when I do take her in town. I'll not send it to him until after I hear from you. If you have any concerns, let me know.

I'm as anxious as you not to turn your sources off.

I'm also anxious to turn Jerry one more. My previous experience tells me what is most likely to.

They have not dropped the second shoe.

If it is like the first it had better not drop.

They really believe the irrational and they are lemmings.

Jimmy won't react to this kind of letter. Jerry ususally does.

The reasons I gave Jerry for stopping writing to Jimmy are true. But they are not all of them.

He is stir-crazy and doesn't believe it possible. He really does believe he is a legal genius, as I suppose you've heard of others.

I've not told either anything substantive about this new evidence and I'm not going to. They'd find a way of blowing it.

I don't expect to hear from Jerry until the middle of the week. So even if this reaches you in Albany it will be before I get anything from him and I don't have to respond right away.

Best,
