

Je, Watched the NonprettyPatviewer on TV tonight. Accounts didn't say, but it had to be Camp David. We saw helicopters as I brought Lil home and I'd heard some earlier. He didn't look at ANYBODY. Could hardly ever see his eyes, which were always downward, below the level of those he was addressing. He just keeps looking down. His content was always interesting, as was his audible breathing. He looked like anything but a joyous man, this Glorious Leader who holds his first press conference the day after the WG convictions. Hate was love and joy for him, and he couldn't resist indulging it and the concomitant defamations, of politicians and the press. Dick Nixon is doing the kicking around, and that is his bag. He even looks more hateful, and I think he has a new hairdo, with a suggestion of bristling to it. The one time he was shown smiling, it suggested a snarl and he wiped it off real quick. Without the text can't be sure, but it sounded like he was rewriting the rewritten October agreement. HW 131/73
