Kepublican Advice: Presidential Penance penance by the President. See Sport is total White House rejection of Capi tenants and congressional Republicans tol Hill's deeply felt need for public logue between President Nixon's lieu-Dooming the melancholy private dia-expiation and contrition. One influenas a committee witness, with a show of somehow confront Congress, perhaps gressional demands that Mr. Nixon his files to save his presidency. But cern how much Mr. Nixon shall open ing publicly scourged, he makes public murder of St. Thomas A. Becket by be-King of England who atoned for the less like Henry II, the 12th century tor feels Mr. Nixon cannot survive unthese talks founder over unstated contial (and pro-Nixon) Republican sena Current negotiations ostensibly con-

ers and the White House over discloare reached between Republican lead gestures. Thus, whatever agreements make considerably less humiliating and all his advisers. Indeed, he is ig sure of tape recordings and documents, the basic gap will remain un noring advice from his own staff to That is anathema to the President

> Mr. Nixon's resignation will rise. bridged and Republican sentiment for his colleagues say privately in the Remurkier today than in calmer times. sentiment on Capitol Hill is even publican cloakroom. was saying in public what almost all paign in Colorado. In truth, Dominick fear about his 1974 re-election camthe President Monday as reflecting tive Sen. Peter Dominick's criticism of Mr. Nixon's aides interpreted conserva-The White House's understanding of

of the President's resignation. mendations from Capitol Hill are elevnot uttered a single word critical of enth-hour efforts to avoid the necessity Vice President. The barrage of recomonce Rep. Gerald Ford is confirmed as Mr. Nixon say privately he must resign Republican senators who still have to save himself — stressing public disble letter outlining the steps necessary conservative and a Nixon loyalist, re-cently wrote the President a remarka-White House by Senate Republican on Watergate. Less sweeping requests closure not only of tape recordings but are now being negotiated with the of all presidential documents bearing Sen, William Brock of Tennessee; a

But tapes and documents will not > road" and no other course remains. committee. One Republican leader tify because he is "at the end of the Congress, in public a total supporter of Mr. Nixon, is privately telling the White House the President must tescans feel the President should face intruly satisfy Congress, Many Republiterrogation from his legislative peers perhaps by the Senate Watergate survive only by humbling himself. It is gressional Republicans. ment between the President and contions of Watergate. Beyond the avowed purpose, however, is the Henry II syndrome: the feeling Mr. Nixon can Nixon to testify: to probe inconsistenhere where all hopes sink of agreecies in Mr. Nixon's confusing explana-The avowed purpose of calling Mr swinging?" Hill, groveling, on his hands and knees, I'd rather see him impeached," dle-level assistant put it this way: "Are lies or are we going to go we going to go out crawling on our belone senior Nixon aide told us. A mid-"If the President has to go up to the out soft-liners in the White House context.

Naturally, then, the hard-liners—headed by Richard M. Nixon—are unalterably more moderate gestures recom-mended by his own staff. ably opposed to any act of penance Indeed, the President ignores consider Those two presidential assistants are > liner, is getting nowhere in urging one final try by Mr. Nixon to publicly pre-Staff proposals for a frank, private discussion of Watergate with Senate and House Republicans have been sent his side of the Watergate story. such as Sen. Brock's, naturally go ungathering dust in the Oval Office for Earnest suggestions from Capitol Hill, weeks. One adviser, usually a hard-ergy crisis. It does explain Press Secre-tary Ron Ziegler's reference to the meeting with his Watergate explain cancellation of Mr. that Mr. Nixon can save himself by foring Mr. Nixon's own view. Watergate "foolishness," fully reflect-Monday in order to deal with the enmatters is sounding again. That may getting Watergate and turning to other Rather, the old White House refrain Lawyers Nixon's Ziegler's "foolishness" was considered a repudiation of Sen. Barry Goldwathinner by the day. ness, much less resigning as President short run, that promises Mr. Nixon's continued refusal to display any weak down to a precious few, not much has changed at the White House. For the Nixon's congressional supporters are "cool it." It also shows that while Mr ter's plea last Sunday that everybody In the Senate Republican cloakroom Republican support grows @ 1973, Field Enterprises, Inc.