

Writer: Oswald Didn't Kill JFK Dallas Police and the FBI Did

Nov. 27, 1975
Dallas, Texas (AP) — A New York Times reporter, James H. Humes, says he believes Oswald is guilty of the assassination of President John F. Kennedy. Humes' comments are part of a special anniversary issue of the magazine "The New Yorker" published in Dallas.

Humes, who has written a book about the assassination, says he believes Oswald was the lone assassin. He says he has seen the bullet that killed Kennedy and that it was fired from Oswald's rifle.

Humes' comments are part of a special anniversary issue of the magazine "The New Yorker" published in Dallas. The issue is dedicated to the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

...when he claimed he did not kill the President, who was assassinated Nov. 22, 1963 in Dallas.

The FBI files on Oswald made available to reporters were analyzed on a computerized stress analysis (CSE), a new type of software that examines the human voice.

Oswald's and CSE analysis from Oswald was telling the truth, what he had reported. He didn't shoot anybody.

Oswald, who said he posed as a Soviet man and had in recent years to gain admittance to the JFK library, was not a Communist, says a top Dallas police official. He was a Communist, says a top FBI agent in the Dallas area.
