WASHINGTON — A recently declassified memo, written six days after John F. Kennedy was slain, suggests that more than one rifle was being depicted as the accused assassin, Lee Harvey Oswald.

CIA stipulations are supported by the accused assassin, Lee Harvey Oswald.

Special Thursday members of the Senate Intelligence Committee voted to open a congressional probe into unanswered questions of President Kennedy's assassination.

Stock lengths vary

Area of similarity

Although photos of both weapons matched up front, the expert said the Archives rifle had a longer stock which also was shaped differently.

Jack White of Fort Worth, the graphics expert, has met behind closed doors on Capitol Hill with Sen. Richard S. Schweiker, R-Pa., who has been co-chairman of a special Senate subcommittee probe of the Kennedy assassination since his fall.

At the same time, former Dallas Police Chief Jesse Curry, in charge of Oswald's arrest and identification as the President's murderer, told The Sunday News that "it's more than possible the gun allegedly used by Oswald could have been substituted by another during the wild weekend in which Oswald was both questioned in connection with Kennedy's murder and then shot dead in Curry's police station by Jack Ruby."
