to ask Ryder if the rifle he worked on, rephrased entirely to have worked on, for a name giving the name of Donald was for someone not Donald. This is not only obvious, but is also pointed to by the fact that Ryder testified he believed he had never seen the real Donald.

There is this possibility considered in the interpretation of Ryder's loss C. W. Greener. Greener expressed full confidence in Ryder as his employee, & pointedly stated that he trusted him with the business & his funds.
