

oward, I don't know if this article from today's Post's Soviet section will interest you or the Whites. After you have read it, please send it to them. If either of you wants to keep it, do, because my own interest is minor, restricted to the CIA's manner of treating minor defectors. In some ways this resembles that of Oswald. The name George Neagoy means nothing to me. Nor does Gionfriddo, which I marked because his role is obvious and because it did not at the time I came to it seem innocent. All the big powers' intelligence apparatus have too much to do to really care for or about the unimportant. If the CIA could lose this guy for two months, could not the same have happened with LHO in USSR? Liao was much more valuable than LHO could have been. HW 3/11/73
