CD194, pp.1,3-7. Oswald's literature distribution. Mrs. Freida Herard, WDSU, "The Greek's" Restaurant, Elwood Huettman, and others working in 100 block Camp St.

Again, it is what is lacking that intrigues. In Oswald's notebook there is an address in the 100 block of Camp St. known to the FBI. That address is 117. It is Gemelli's tailor shop, where inquiry would have revealed Oswald was unknown. Thus, Oswald's use of simple errors in his notebook would have come to light. Changing one number gives the Camp St. address of Ronnie Caire's advertising agency, where Oswald had applied for a job. Caire had been active in anti-Castro activities, had been a close associate of Arcacha.

Why was Mrs. Herard interviewed? Why did the FBI not show her the pictures it had of the literature distribution she saw, not the one she hadn't seen? This question is pertinent to the others who saw the Canal St. distribution.

Huettman obviously had a handbill. Did he give it to the FBI? Did they ask for it? How did they come to question him? Of course, he could have called them, but they do not say.

Also seemingly missing and most conspicuously so are any employees of the parking garage across the side street from the Trade Mart. This is particularly interesting to me because an anti-Castro Cuban told me of seeing this distribution and of Oswald having access to a car parked at this garage, an old car. Whether or not the FBI knew or could have learned this, employees of the open garage building are among the most obvious to have been questioned, to have seen pictures.
