Your card re Geppert came yesterday. Okay, and thanks. It reminds me that perhaps I forgot to tell you of one provision of the Privacy Act. It may or may not interest Geppert or you. If there is an error in the files or in any record you are entitled to file a correction which thereafter is required to be made available any time the record corrected also is made available. This relates to uses within the government.

The large package of clippings came two days ago. I'm hoping Lil will be able to get to copying today. As soon as she does I'll return them.

Thanks for them.

I've heard nothing from or about John since the marshals left the room off the HSCA hearing room in which they stayed and in which they held him until called.

I was glad to get the story from the strike paper. If there are any others I'd like to have them. I've heard that the police issued a statement in which they held that whatever happened was without criminal intent. Naturally, after all the damage that could be caused by it followed the inaccurate statement and charges.

Nothing like charging a man who is beaten up by others, who also are armed, with attempting to murder them.

Sincerely,
