Grand Jury Calls Giancana Guard By Joel D. Weisman County State's Attorney Ber Giancana allegadiy was in manage Bassing

Investigators for Cook entry.

DeStefano, 60, is free on $100,000 bond while appealing "almost paranoid" about his onviction in the 1963 murder of an underworld loan personal safety in recent derived associates.

Tors are certain ne knew his cana's death. The agency has might eventual denied any role. Many believe ful information the killing may have been authorities say, or offered by Giancana's under issued for DeStefano, and associates. there were no signs of forced

By Joel D. Weisman

Special to The Washinston Post

CHICAGO, July 3—A Cook County grand jury subpoens has been issued for Mario DeStefano, bodyguard of slain crime syndicate leader Sam (Momo) Giancana was killed by Ciancana silegedly was inmoney. Because of his bond status DeStefano could not leave the state without court portedly was willing to be a lowing the murder," said Ralph Berkowitz, first assistCastro's takeover of millions of dollars worth of mob gamb Ciancana was special federal grand jury when he allegedly sought in at dinner at the home the vestment outlets for mob night of his death.

(Momo) Giancana.

Giancana was killed by a lone gunman, authorities say.

Ione gunman, authorities say.

In the basement of his home shortly before midnight ted, the killer to his suburban of the killer to his suburb of dollars worth of mob gamb-ling casinos, authorities say. here investigating the sources denied any role. Many believe ful information to the jury,

> In addition to the subpoena issued for DeStefano-which DeStefano's service as a bodyguard to Giancana was grand jury has subpoenaed apparently a somtimes thing, partly because of Giancana's Dominic Blasi, who joined extended periods of travel, when he allegedly sought in lat dinner at the home the