Dear Mr. Randolph,

I never got or even looked at the "Ruby polygraph.

However, it should be in the National Archives and it should provide you with a copy. I'm sorry that because for so many years my health has precluded any travel that I no longer know who to address. And I think that part of the Archives is now at College Park, Md. A letter to it at College Park should reach it.

If I may offer an opinion where I may not be qualified, rather a question, how good a subject was Ruby for a polygraph?

Aside from the kind of personality he was and his situation he did have a cancer of the brain that did kill him.

While my source may have been prejudiced, Alan Sweatt, the chief criminal deputy sheriff, told me as I recall that he was chased out of his own polygraph room, to which he added that when he left there was nobody there who was really competent at it. He was offended and that may have influenced what he told me.

The unpublished HSCA records are now supposed to be available through the Archives.

A number of police officers have written me but you are the only one who expressed an interest in the polygraph.

Ruby was also sick in the head. Henry Wade is a friend. He let me go through his Ruby file after Ruby died. He had a letter from the SPCA about Ruby. He referred to his dachshund Sheba as his wife. The FBI was concerned that he was treating her that way.

There were a few other things like that, not about dogs but like fondling young girls just entering puberty and doing that in public.

If you are ever in the neighborhood you'll be welcome.

Thanks,

Harold Weisberg

If you have time to sign them for me I would appreciate it very much.

In the course of your acquisition of documents from the government have you managed to obtain copies of the Ruby Polygraph charts? The reason for my interest is based on a conversation I had with Dick Arther in New Orleans last year. You will recall Dick Arther as one of the polygraphists contacted by the House Select Committee on Assassinations to review these charts for them. As a police officer with a high interest in the subject, I would certainly like to have some polygraph operators, who are friends, and whose opinions I respect, review them for me. It was Dicks' opinion that only the first two tests ran by the FBI had any validity, thus these are the ones of particular interest to me.

I have observed some of your interviews on various videos and hope I have the opportunity to meet you someday.

I will look forward to receiving the above-titled books, and will certainly get Never Again in September.

Yours, very truly,
