The State's proof would then continue and show that the Defendant, as Ramon George Sneyd, did fly to London, arriving on May the 7th, 1968.

A Miss Monica Baker, who is a receptionist for the BOAC in London, would testify with reference to exchanging the return ticket back to Toronto for the Defendant in exchange for a ticket to Lisbon, Portugal, and giving a small refund, as I recall, something around $14.00.

Inspector Passou of the Portuguese National Police in Lisbon, Portugal, would be called by the State and would introduce through him official records reflecting the entry into Lisbon, Portugal, by the Defendant on May the 8th, 1968, and his exit on May the 17th, 1968, and, further, with reference to pursuant to law there, where they have to make a record of any foreigner staying even overnight in a motel or a hotel, with reference to his staying at the Hotel Portugal during this period would testify as to how the Defendant came to the embassy on May the 15th of 1968, for the purpose of having a name corrected on the Canadian passport. The name reflected Sneya, S-n-e-y-a, rather than S-n-e-y-d. The passport was cancelled, a new passport was issued with the name correctly spelled S-n-e-y-d.

Mr. Fama, who was a member of the Portuguese Police there in Lisbon, checked both passports and allowed the Defendant to leave for flight to London on May the 17th.
