June 20, 1968

Dear Mr. Campbell,

Thanks for your letter of the 18th.

Unless it becomes possible for me to resume my field investigations before then, I will be in Washington Tuesday June 25, should you or the Senator want to see me.

One of the things in which I have had greatest interest in these investigations is the other aspect of the investigation in which the Senator seems to have had apprehensions. I have made what I regard as considerable progress and expect additional constructive information when I can resume my interviews with witnesses.

From this I have already reconstructed part of Oswald's life and connections that are not in any of the Warren Commission material, including the unpublished. Again, I think this is another field in which information was deliberately withheld from the members of the Commission. In one case that I regard as a very important one, I can now prove a substantive change in the testimony when it was printed. In the same case I can prove deliberate misrepresentation that may not be perjury but certainly was false testimony. Even more, I can show that some of these connections were known and still not presented to the members, are not in any of the unpublished material.

Sincerely yours,

Harold Weisberg

Dear Mr. Weisberg:

In the temporary absence of Senator Russell who is away from Washington for the remainder of this week, I am taking the liberty of acknowledging and thanking you for your letter and enclosed copy of the one to you from the Archivist of the United States on certain aspects of the records of the Warren Commission.

Your correspondence will, of course, be brought to the Senator's attention at the earliest opportunity upon his return and he now has in his hands your earlier letters and information.

The Senator is most interested in the matters which you raise and will undoubtedly devote more attention to them when it is possible for him to do so. As you may know, the Congress is pressing toward an adjournment date during the first week of August and the various subcommittees of the Senate Appropriations Committee of which Senator Russell is a member are meeting almost daily. Therefore, this and his other duties limit the Senator's time presently but you may be assured that we will be in touch with you if the Senator feels that you can be of further assistance after he has had an opportunity to study the material which you have submitted.

With best wishes, I am

Sincerely,

Charles E. Campbell
