

Dear Karen,

1/13/76

Thanks for the new batch of clips and apologies for forgetting to thank you for the nice cheese. Too much pressure.

I am taking care. That is part of the problem. Shortened day. more work.

Latest report by phone from doctor's nurse today is that I'm coming along very well.

When I asked you about Kimsey McDonald had not yet used his name in the book. But I knew. I also knew of Kimsey earlier, before he died, but never met him. He had a local lady friend.

Supposedly he was no more than a questioned documents expert, so he on this count also doesn't fit McDonald's account.

No response to my request of Dep. Justice to prosecute him, publishers, backers for fraud.

Thanks and best,

Dear Harold,

Here's the rest of the Cuban stories. I would have had them for you sooner, but we were snowed in for 3 days and so I couldn't get to the library until Saturday.

Now I understand why you were so interested in Herman Kimsey. I just got done reading Appointment in Dallas. It has to be one of the strangest books I've ever read. There were so many blatant errors in it, I got tired of noting them. What really gripes me the most is that a book like that can get published and will probably be read by a lot of gullible people, while you have to publish your own and settle for limited circulation.

Take care and give my best to Hil.
Karen
