

Dear Harold,

Take a few minutes for this, there will be no more correspondence from me then.

You say that you do not have time to answer my questions anymore. I understand that. I simply ask you questions so I will learn something new, obviously you do not like helping people to learn. You say that you do not have the time for my questions, though I think I ask reasonable ones, I am too tired of putting up with your mean responses. I ask to learn, not to make you mad as you think I do.

I also have been patient with you, I try to understand what you say, some times I do not get what you are saying. I ask questions, you write back saying mean things. I take time for visiting you, spending Hundreds of dollars on trips to see you, and now just to find out that you now hate me.

I will ask nothing more, write no more unless you want me too. I hope your health stays good and you are able to get all your work done. Best to you and your wife.

Cal Schoonover

PS. Its been nice visiting you and writing to you.

1 more, should have sent to his mother but did not take time
