Dear Mr. Dymond,

I have written two books. You refer to one. I am sending them both, believing you will want them both.

If I may anticipate your interest, I believe in WHITEWAAH you will be more interested in chapter 11 than possibly any other. In WHITE ASH II I suggest chapter 7.

I regret my books are not available in New Orleans. Particularly is it difficult for me to understant the unavailability of the Dell reprint of WHITEWASH, which is relatively new. If it is not asking too much, did you ask the wholesalers if they have no supplies of that edition? Or if they ordered a new supply without getting the order filled.

Each of the books in the original edition is five dollers. If you want to return either or both, you may. There is no other edition of WHITEWASH II.

Although you are without doubt a busy man, I hope you are sufficiently interested in free speech, free press, and the freedom of information available to the people of the country to elicit some interest in your area in having all books on all sides of this vital question freely and readily available.

Sincerely yours,

Harold Weisberg
