

Dear Sol,

2/17/91

I worked quite a bit yesterday, as you'll see after I read and correct, and ~~getting~~ ^{setting} ~~returning~~ ^{returning} at my usual early hour ^{start} this morning, taking a little time for the paper and to take -il to lunch and at after 4:30 I'm still at it. You may not agree with what I've taken the time to write McGrory but I enclose that anyway.

You should have gotten what I've written to and about Stone and will get more. I'm excitedly into too much and soon I'll knock off for the day and read or take in the news.

We both want to thank you both for the beautiful valentine greeting which I'm sure you know we reciprocate.

Too many things get me started on too many things.

What I sent Wrono asking him to make a copy for you, which he'll do, he told me today he'd started to read and enjoys it. That pleases me. He says what my friend Joe Nylon says, that it should be a book. I told him not for me to do and there are too many things I hope to live to be able to do that are more important.

More, if I had that kind of self-concept I'd have accepted Joe's offer to pay for publishing my memoirs, as he calls them.

I'd appreciate your opinion on what I've suggested re Stone and Garrison because, it happens, without having read my letter to Stone, Wrono has the same kind of idea. As he reads that letter he'll note topics from his knowledge of Garrison, about whom he knows a bit.

Stone's people, already having begun casting, I was told is reported in a clipping I'll get, have selected their Garrison. I think it is that clipping rather than the friend who told me, that says again that it will be mostly Garrison.

Which makes me wonder not about why he was not in touch with me but why he is paying money to others for rights he does not have to buy and why he is employing some who can really be called nefarious characters, like Gerry Patrick Henning, who visited me recently. I think I sent you a copy of a memo on that.

My friend and FOIA lawyer, Jim Lesar, agrees he has not been in touch with me for reasons including what those who do not agree with me have told him about me.

Thanks and best to you all,
